Present Policy 'on Brink of Precipice' Where Island Logging Concerned

H. R. MacMillan, chairman of the board of B.C.'s biggest timber firm, MacMillan and Bloedel, believes that no further forest management licences should be granted in the Vancouver forest district which covers the big productive logging area of the lower B.C. coast including Vancouver Island.

Mr. MacMillan told Chief Justice Gordon Sloan that facts concerning the Vancouver district "show we are on the brink of the precipice, and should not advance another step, otherwise the plunge will be into trouble."

The one-time chief forester of B.C. made the submission in an 82-page brief presented before the Sloan royal commission on forestry, now sitting at the courthouse.

MAIN POINTS

In what he termed "drastic" recommendations, Mr. MacMillan urged:

1. That the sustained annual yield of forest crop be maintained and extended throughout the province.
2. That no more forest management licences be granted in the Vancouver forest district, which includes all of Vancouver Island.
3. That all Crown timber not in "temporary cutting tenures" be a political innocent.

be added "immediately" to public working circles.

4. That the boundaries of public working circles be subject to change only by the Legislature.

5. That public working circles be administered as separate units, with a forester in charge of each one.

6. Every feasible means should be employed to keep the market logger in business.

7. That "blackmail frequently

'Politics', Say Small Operators

VANCOUVER (Special)—B. J. Keeley, president, Forest Policy Development Association comprising 16 sawmill, veneer, logging and plywood plants in B.C., today called H. R. MacMillan's plan to abandon the policy of forest management licences a political manoeuvre by a political innocent.

New Battle in Gaza Fires Holy Land War

WASHINGTON (UP)—The new outbreak of Israeli-Egyptian fighting is "very serious" and "getting worse," the state department said this afternoon.

JERUSALEM (CP)—More than 250 killed were claimed by both sides today as Israeli and Egyptian forces battled in the demilitarized frontier zone in the worst fighting between them since the end of the 1948 Palestine war.

At the United Nations headquarters in New York, representatives of Britain, the United States and France began a new and "urgent" round of consultations in an 11th-hour bid to forestall a full-scale war in the Holy Land.

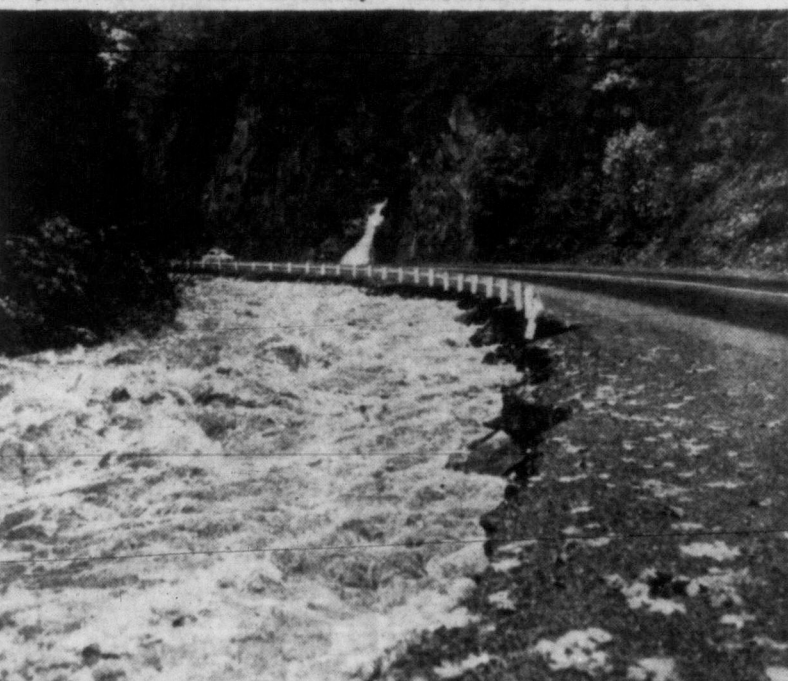

The battle started Wednesday night when the Israelis seized a border checkpoint in the Gaza strip.

VENGEFUL FLOOD—Torrential rains that turned Arbutus creek on Malahat from a quiet rill to a flood ripped out 75 feet of Trans-Canada Highway early today, leaving only concrete retaining wall. Break forced all highway traffic north to travel via Mill Bay

Ferry, and farther up hillside trouble on E & N Railway track forced suspension of up-island service for today. Provincial engineers estimate at least two days will be required to bridge gap in temporary fashion. Road on opposite side leads to Hall's boathouse.

GOLDSTREAM BOILS—Roaring waters of Goldstream today gnawed at banks directly below Trans-Canada Highway, threatened foundations of guard rails. Extensive highway improvements were completed this year, involved relocating bed of Goldstream in certain places. (Times photos.)

Mainlanders Forced From Homes; Crack Train Derailed; Roads Cut

VANCOUVER (CP)—Trans-continental trains were halted and residents fled their homes today in one of the worst rainstorms in British Columbia's rainy history. A record 24-hour fall of 2.4 inches was recorded at Sea Island airport.

A CPR train, the crack west-bound Dominion, was derailed by a rock and mud slide near Harrison Mills, 61 miles east of here.

Two rock slides and a mud slide cut CNR lines in the Yale subdivision which stretches from Vancouver to Boston Bar in the Fraser canyon. The line's westbound Super Continental was running three hours late, but the Continental, train No. 3, was held at Stout, B.C. Its estimated time of arrival here was 10 p.m.—15 hours late.

The Hope-Princeton highway was cut about 100 miles east of here by slides and washouts. The Trans-Canada Highway was reported "extremely dangerous" in the Fraser canyon.

At Salmon Arm, in the Okanagan, a 24-hour snowfall of 7.7 inches was recorded and temperatures dropped to 18 degrees above zero during the night. No serious accidents were reported.

British United Press reported the Mosquito creek in North Vancouver turned into a boiling flood-tide. Two bridges over the creek were washed out and several families living adjacent to the creek had to be evacuated with their homes were flooded.

In New Westminster, Columbia and Water streets were covered with up to three feet of water on some blocks.

Heavy damage was reported throughout the luxury housing developments on Vancouver's west shore. Some residents left to stay with friends as furnaces were extinguished by climbing waters.

U.S. Helicopter Trying To Make Rescue Lift

Eleven persons marooned at Port Renfrew and in danger of drowning are the objects of an air-sea rescue attempt this afternoon.

They were entrapped when the San Juan River flooded the community 50 miles from Victoria early today.

A U.S. helicopter reached the scene at 1.30 but has not yet reported back.

The Victoria tug, Island Challenger is standing by outside Port Renfrew to aid in the rescue if the stormy seas permit.

The U.S. Coast Guard dispatched the helicopter from Port Angeles, Wash., in an attempt to rescue the trapped persons who would be "lost" if not rescued in a few hours.

The call for rescue said "we will be lost" if not saved before 3 p.m.

One of those endangered is a woman cripple in a wheelchair.

The San Juan River, which empties into the Strait of Juan de Fuca, became a raging torrent which slammed into Port Renfrew and left residents along the river bank isolated with the water rising on all sides.

High tide at 2.07 p.m. reached 12 feet 8 inches at the mouth of the inlet, about two feet above normal. Shipping men here said danger would be increased because of the southeast wind blowing strongly in the area, backing up the ocean against the raging San Juan River.

A spokesman for Island Tug & Barge Ltd., owners of Island Challenger, said it would be impossible for the tug to get close enough inshore to effect a rescue.

The Coast Guard hoped to let down ladders from the helicopter to rescue the flood victims. A plane was flying over the area and radioing reports on the situation at Port Renfrew.

The Coast Guard diverted the helicopter from rescue operations in the U.S. Olympic peninsula to go to Port Renfrew. The operation was expected to be completed early this afternoon barring a sudden lowering of the cloud ceiling.

"If that happens, I don't know what we would do," an air-sea rescue spokesman said at Vancouver.

The spokesman said if the helicopter could not get in to lift the people out, all the RCAF could do would be drop dinghies.

"I don't think that would be much help," he said.

MINOR STORM

More Rain Due Tonight

More rain was predicted today by weatherman William Mackie.

Another minor storm is heading for the Vancouver Island Coast, and will bring rain that will last until at least midnight.

"Friday will be cloudy with showers and lower temperatures," he said.

"We are right on the storm track."

The weatherman was caught in his own rainstorm today.

"Our observatory roof is leaking like a sieve, and we're practically under water," he said.

"We have at least five buckets out trying to corral the leaks, and need more," he said.

The severe rains and autumn fall of leaves combined to make trouble in many Victoria basements.

Acting city engineer J. C. Garnett said that leaves had blocked several drains and crews were busy in many areas throughout the city repairing the situation.

He reported that the worst cases of basement flooding were reported from the Bowldrome on Yates Street and the Royal Olympic Hotel on Johnson Street.

In each case workmen were required to install heavy pumps which were borrowed from the city fire department.

Transportation services and public utilities today were recovering from shattering blows inflicted here by an unprecedented 3.46 inches of rain in 24 hours. More rain is predicted for tonight.

Highlights of the rainstorm damage:

1. A huge fill at Arbutus creek on the Malahat, 15 miles from Victoria, washed out early this morning. Traffic will not be resumed for two days, according to government engineers.

2. More than 11 inches of rain in 24 hours at Jordan River overtaxed the huge capacity of the B.C. Electric storage dam spillway. Water rushing over the end of the dam washed out the flume serving the power house, and all Victoria's power now is coming from the B.C. Power Commission's John Hart plant at Campbell River, the Brentwood steam plant of the B.C. Electric, and the BCE Goldstream plant.

3. Sooke is cut off from Victoria. Dedwney flats one mile west of Glen Lake are under three feet of water, and two feet of water covers the road where Neal Creek, east of Sooke River, has overflowed its banks.

4. The Cowichan Lake community of Youbou, where B.C. Forest Products has a sawmill, was plunged into darkness early this morning.

Three families in the vicinity of the creek had to be moved to safety as the waters threatened their homes.

5. All Up-Island highway traffic is being carried on the Mill Bay ferry, which has announced it will maintain 24-hour service during the present emergency.

6. E & N Railway announced no trains would operate out of Victoria today.

7. Shawnigan Lake is reported to have risen three feet in the last 24 hours.

Weatherman William Mackie said the rain was the heaviest ever recorded here. In following the official weather records system, which tabulates totals only for the 24 hours between 4.30 a.m. one day and 4.30 a.m. the following day, an all-time record rain for November was set of 2.65 inches for the 24-hour period.

The Malahat washout occurred early this morning. Raging waters in the swollen creek could not be carried off by a culvert, swept over the fill, and finally carried it away. RCMP have erected warnings at the bridge north of Suicide corner.

Engineers expect the huge gap will not be bridged for at least two days.

Goldstream, a mild trickle all summer long, now is a seething torrent that has washed away part of the new highway fill just completed within the last year between Suicide corner and Goldstream park.

Families Marooned Near Port Alberni

NANAIMO (CP)—Record rainfall along the east coast of Vancouver Island have washed out sections of highways and cut the water supply at Youbou.

Weather observer Hiram Gough said the 2.7 inches of rain that fell here between 8.30 a.m. Wednesday and 8.30 a.m. today is believed to be a record for the city.

At Port Alberni 2.61 inches of rain were registered in 24 hours.

Roads between Port Alberni and Franklin River were washed out. MacMillan and Bloedel operations at Port Alberni and 30 miles southeast were suspended when two logging railway bridges collapsed. Fifty families and 200 loggers are practically marooned in one camp.

Crofton Corners, about nine miles north of Duncan, has been cut by rising waters of the Chemainus river.

This is the highest point the Chemainus river has reached since the disastrous floods of 1951.

At Cowichan Bay, one boat was seriously damaged Wednesday afternoon when it was rammed by a drifting log. The boat was towed to shore before it sank.

Henry M. Jackson and his family on Cowichan Bay road, four miles from Duncan, were stranded in their home.

RCMP in Duncan said "the family can't get out." Police report that the road from Duncan to Lake Cowichan is still in use but Youbou cannot be reached.

The Coon Creek bridge, between Lake Cowichan and Youbou, was washed out during the night by high water. The bridge is located four miles from Lake Cowichan and is the only road into the mill town.

Zoning By-Law Election Issue?

Council Decides to Shelve Discussion Pending Reports From Dept. Heads

By PETE LOUDON

Victoria's proposed zoning by-law may emerge as the biggest single issue in the December civic elections.

It was agreed by several aldermen following an informal meeting in the mayor's office Wednesday that it will not be passed by council this year.

This follows a pattern set in 1953 and followed in 1954. The big by-law, 110 complicated pages, will not appear at council level again for at least a month.

It was decided Wednesday to hold it back until reports have been received from all department heads.

They were given a month to study, write and submit these reports. At that time, council will still be faced with clause-by-clause study, asked by Ald. Robert Macmillan. He has estimated that it would take three months. Even if council cuts that estimate by two-thirds, they would not have turned the final page until early January.

What is your stand on the draft zoning by-law? In some measure it affects every property holder in Victoria and is of special interest to building trades and those interested in the tourist industry.

Just how candidates are to get copies of the by-law was not immediately known Wednesday.

Mrs. Elsie Shepherd, secretary to the Town Planning Commission, told council that she possesses the only completely up-to-date copy, due to a recent flood of technical changes.

One question bound to be asked of every candidate is

Talk Goes in Circles

The two-and-a-half-hour meeting in the mayor's office saw talk going in circles. Points were debated by city building inspector William Oosterink and defended by TPC secretary Mrs. Elsie Shepherd.

City solicitor Arthur Patton was called in for legal opinions. No minutes were kept and aldermen are faced with a repetition of all points discussed when they finally sit to pass the by-law.

Finally, it was decided that nothing could be done of a constructive nature at the informal meeting and the decision to refer the matter to the department heads was made.

During the course of the meeting, Mayor Harrison charged both Ald. W. F. Pinfold and Ald. Arthur Dowell with "playing politics."

Ald. Pinfold tried to get a definite statement from the mayor on whether the city should have a town planning commission.

"Maybe so and maybe not, but we have it," said the mayor. "It's purely academic. Don't play politics with me."

Ald. Pinfold said that if the mayor held to his contention that aldermen should re-study the by-law, then submit their findings to competent counsel, "You've answered my question. We don't need a TPC if we are going to do it ourselves."

Ald. Dowell said the mayor was "just stalling," which the mayor denied and countered with the suggestion that the alderman was playing politics. This Ald. Dowell denied.

400 SUBS IN RUSS FLEET, 100 MORE THAN YEAR AGO

LONDON (UP)—The Soviet Union, driving to build up a huge undersea fleet, now has "not less than 400" submarines completed and another 100 under construction, "Jane's Fighting Ships" disclosed today.

The 1955-56 edition of Jane's, most authoritative reference book on the world's navies, disclosed an increase of 100 completed submarines since last year. The 1954-55 edition credited the Soviets with 300 undersea craft.

Jane's said all of the 100 Russian submarines now under construction are being fitted with snorkel apparatus to enable the vessels to stay underwater for long periods of time without coming up for air.

Church, Press Praise 'Courageous' Princess

LONDON (CP)—Britons today praised Princess Margaret for the quiet courage with which she went through her first public appearance since announcing that she would not marry Peter Townsend.

The press applauded in a host of front-page stories the "courageous" way in which she faced her first public engagement only 48 hours after her renunciation of marriage.

The Princess, eyes shining and with an air of dedication, went Wednesday night to a public service in St. Paul's Cathedral attended by 3,000 people.

The congregation was hushed as she knelt in a minute's personal prayer before the high altar immediately after her arrival.

Nobel Peace Prize Goes To UN Group

OSLO, Norway (UP)—The 1954 Nobel Peace Prize—held over from last year—was awarded today to an organization instead of a man.

It went to the office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees.

The 1855 Nobel Peace Prize was reserved for award next year.

Thus the Norwegian Storting (parliament) which awards the coveted prize failed for the second straight year to agree on a man from a long list including such names as Sir Winston Churchill, Harry S. Truman, Pierre Mendes-France, Sir Anthony Eden and Jawaharlal Nehru.

Refugee work always has drawn close attention by the Nobel committee. In 1922 and again in 1938, the award was made for work with refugees.

No Christians are permitted to stay in Mecca, and foreign diplomats credited to Saudi Arabia live in the port city of Jeddah.

Health Forces Cyril Garbett To Quit as Archbishop of York

YORK, England (Reuters)—Dr. Cyril Garbett, Archbishop of York, announced today he will retire early next year.

The 80-year-old archbishop, one of the outstanding personalities of the Anglican church, said he is retiring because of age and ill health.

Dr. Garbett, second to the Archbishop of Canterbury in the Church of England hierarchy, was at one time known as "The Hiding Bishop."

Twice a year when he was Bishop of Winchester he tramped among the lonely parishes of his diocese wearing a purple cassock and carrying a 500-year-old pastoral staff. He was then in his 60s.

On these tours he walked 15 miles a day frequently conducting services in the open. When he became archbishop of York in 1942, he immediately arranged a series of walking tours so he could talk to farm workers and villagers.

A forceful but kindly churchman, he has never been slow to attack the desecration of the countryside.

He often spoke strongly against badly designed country houses and glaring roadside advertisements.

FAVORS UNITY

He believes world problems can best be solved by Christian unity.

Last May he underwent a serious operation and it was not until September that he appeared in public again.

Last month illness prevented him from attending the convention of York and his presidential address was read for him.

Hitler's Private Life

Hitler smashed a pair of glasses in each of his furious speeches — but, otherwise, was "completely sane."

By HEINZ LINGE, Hitler's Personal Valet

(World Copyright 1955)

BERLIN—Was Hitler mad?

This is the question asked me most often since I returned from 11 years in a Russian prison camp. The Russians asked it, too.

I've seen a great deal written suggesting that Hitler flew into uncontrollable tempers and ended up by biting the rug or tearing curtains to pieces.

All I can say is that I never saw him in such a mood, and for many, many years I was seldom more than a few yards away from him. Of course, he did gesticulate a great deal, and he shouted a lot when he was speaking. But that was because that is how he thought a Fuehrer should behave.

Most of his gestures had been carefully rehearsed in advance. Usually it took Hitler two days and nights, with a relay of secretaries in constant attendance, before he was satisfied with the draft of an important speech. When the draft was ready, he would rehearse the speech before a mirror, with a stop watch in his hand. He studied each gesture carefully, and tried it over and over in front of the mirror until he was satisfied. Sometimes he would ask my opinion.

"Linge, does that sound right?" he would say to me, "Do you think I am ready to face the audience?"

NEAR-SIGHTED, NERVOUS

The only destructive acts by the Fuehrer I ever witnessed occurred during the heated moments of a speech, or when he was giving direct orders to someone who had questioned his opinions.

I can tell you now that Hitler was a nervous speaker.

Throughout the 10 years I was his valet, he had to use glasses to read ordinary print. He had a horror of being seen in them, however.

"A Fuehrer cannot wear glasses," he would say.

So a special typewriter was built with extra-large letters on which all of his speeches were typed, so that he could read his notes easily in public without glasses.

But habit died hard and every time he worked himself up while speaking he would instinctively pull his glasses out of his pocket and hold them in his hand behind his back.

Almost invariably, when he reached the high point of his speech, he would clench his fist involuntarily and smash his glasses.

Hitler never conquered this habit, and I always had to have an extra pair of glasses available. I lost count of the number of pairs he broke in this way, but I can remember distinctly at least 30 such incidents.

Another habit that may have given rise to those carpet-biting stories was the colored pencils.

On his desk, Hitler always had three pencils—one red, one green and one blue.

"The red one, Linge," he once told me, "I use when I am writing about or writing to an enemy. The green one I use when making notes about a friend. I use the blue one when I feel I should be cautious."

But aside from their use to indicate his mental attitude about a person or subject, these usually were the objects he would seize, and throw on the desk or on the ground with such force that they broke, whenever he was aroused.

COMPLETELY SANE

But that is about all I can recall in the way of heated emotion. I do not think that these things meant that Hitler was insane or not responsible for his actions.

I would say that Hitler was completely sane. He was ambitious, true. He had an overwhelming conviction that he was the man of destiny who would make Germany triumph over the world.

He certainly had a few complexes. He could never get out of his mind, for example, that if Germany had not surrendered Nov. 11, 1918, but had hung on fighting a little longer, she would have won the first war. He would come back to this subject frequently when we were alone.

It was in those moments that again and again Hitler used the phrase, "Germany must never surrender again."

It's my own view that he had one of the keenest brains in Germany, and contrary to the view circulated abroad, he did not particularly like "yes men."

True enough, he was surrounded by men who helped him maintain his opinion that he was selected by destiny to lead Germany to world domination. But he still had respect for the man who stood up to him and insisted he was wrong.

"Linge," he once said to me, "the man I cannot stomach is the one who says to me that so-and-so is right, and then, when he sees that I do not agree, switches right around and says he is wrong and I am right. My man is the man who will prove to me that I am wrong, and will stick to his opinions whatever I say—provided he can convince me in the end that what he is saying is right."

But there were not many in Germany in those days who would openly tell the Fuehrer that he was wrong.

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—A jet plane abandoned in the air threatened an air base and surrounding areas Wednesday, but was shot down before it could do any damage. Capt. Glendon K. ## French Vote Moved Up --Or, Anyway, Moved PARIS (AP)—The National Assembly early today voted in favor of holding new general elections in France next month, but a cloud of parliamentary confusion hangs over the future of the plan.

Endorsement of the government's bill, advancing the elections from June, came on a vote of confidence for Premier Faure, but another procedural wrangle developed when assembly president Pierre Scheiter ruled that the senate must have two months to consider the measure.

BIG FOUR PARLEY STALLED ON GERMANY

New Talks With Russia in 1957 Considered by Western Powers

GENEVA (UP)—The United States and its western partners today considered a new Big Four meeting with Russia next year to try again to break their deadlock over Germany.

The same old deadlock over free elections to unify Germany threatened further progress at this Big Four foreign ministers meeting.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said there has been considerable agreement on the twin problem of a treaty for European security. Authoritative sources said he hoped there would be enough to leave the detail work to a committee of experts.

The sources added that the remaining differences might be tackled by a new foreign ministers' meeting some time next year. They doubted the deadlock on Germany can be broken here at present.

The western big three foreign ministers today rejected Russia's "loaded" plan on Germany as "unacceptable" and "hopeless."

Top officials of the three western delegations met at British headquarters to study the plan put forward by Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov Wednesday night which threw the Big Four conference into a near deadlock on Germany.

One high western delegate branded the plan as "impossible."

The plan contained no provisions for free all-German elections and no commitment on German unity.

The west has taken the firm stand that without German reunification there can be no cold war settlement in Europe.

Advice From a Friend

MR. DOUGLAS STUART, THE American ambassador to Canada and a man highly respected throughout this country, has undertaken to defend the trade policies of his Government. Canadians could wish that those policies were as respectable as Mr. Stuart, their defender.

He says that Canadians do not fully realize how far the United States has gone to assist Canada's trade and cites as an example of enlightened American statesmanship, the recent removal of quota restrictions on imported oats and barley. The Canadian press, says Mr. Stuart, is never tired of shouting about American restrictions but whenever they are removed the newspapers here are strangely silent.

As a matter of fact, the case of oats and barley was widely noted in the Canadian press but it really amounted to very little. The restrictions were removed only when the trade in these grains had shrunk to a pretty insignificant trickle which had ceased to alarm the American farmers.

It is not a minor trade in these coarse grains but the crisis in wheat that worries the Canadian Government and people.

Mr. Stuart seems to think that all the excitement about wheat has been drummed up artificially by the newspapers of Canada. If he has read the newspapers in the last few days he will have noted the statements of the non-partisan Canadian Wheat Board, which attributes much of our wheat marketing problems to the American policy of dumping its farm surpluses abroad. This crisis did not originate in the newspapers but in the world market. The market is disturbed by many other factors but not the least of them is the American policy which Mr. Stuart attempts to defend.

No Canadian will blame him for attempting to make the best of a bad job. It is his right and duty to argue the case of his Government. Unfortunately, however, his Government is not entirely in control of the farm surplus problem.

It has been ordered by the Congress, in a recent statute, to get rid of the surplus virtually on any terms and it must carry out the law within very narrow limits of discretion.

Mr. Stuart must realize that Canada is not critical of his chief, President Eisenhower, whose desire for liberalized trade policies is fully realized here. Canada suspects, however, and has good reason to suspect that the President's admirable attitude is not fully shared by his cabinet, and assuredly is opposed by a large right wing of the Republican Party. And in all probability Mr. Eisenhower, stricken by his exertions, will not be President much longer.

Then what? This is the long-term question now disturbing Canada. If the Democratic Party returns to office it may renew its long struggle for lower tariffs and increased imports, but so far as agriculture is concerned it is more deeply committed to an unsound policy than the Republicans.

The Eisenhower Government at least has refused to peg farm prices at a rigid valuation of 90 per cent of "parity" and has introduced somewhat lower flexible support prices. The Democrats, ravenous for the decisive farm vote, have denounced this policy and promised to raise the existing guarantees to the farmers.

Under such a policy they will be encouraged to continue producing un-economic and unsaleable crops which the Government must buy and somehow unload, even if they have to be dumped.

It is not the immediate wheat crisis but the apparent permanence of a deliberate farm-surplus policy in the United States that alarms Canada. Its alarm will not be still by the assurances of Mr. Stuart, a good friend of Canada but not a very convincing defender of his Government.

Forbidden Plateau Park

THE REVISED PROPOSAL BY the B.C. Government to take over the Forbidden Plateau as a provincial park will arouse wide interest in this community.

The scenic grandeur of the area and the opportunities it offers for wilderness recreation have been widely publicized. Perhaps no other region on the Island is better endowed by nature for such purposes.

The importance of the Plateau will become more apparent as urban growth emphasizes the need for outdoor vacation regions. It is to be hoped the Government will be successful in negotiations with the CPR for this magnificent mountain and lake land.

The scheme, admirable in its intent to preserve a fine section of wilderness for public enjoyment, still raises an important point. Assuming that the Government acquires the property and lists it as a park, how secure will it be from later invasion for commercial purposes? Perhaps it contains no important hydro potential, but it does contain trees and possibly important minerals.

With Powder Dry

THE ASSESSMENT OF PROF. J. L. JACKSON, of the RCAF Staff College at Toronto, is that 40 H-bombs would be sufficient to destroy the industrial potential and wipe out organized life in either the United States or the Soviet Union. It is claimed for current plans of electronic interception that 90 per cent of an aerial attacking force could be wiped out. To ensure that 40 planes get through, then, it would be necessary to send 400. This would be a small force indeed, even by the standards of the Second World War when 1,000-plane raids were frequently staged.

That the world stands on the brink of extinction is therefore a possibility far removed from mere theory.

It is significant, in view of Prof. Jackson's comments, to note the remarks of Dr. O. M. Solandt, chairman of the defence research board. He says that Russia has already outstripped the West in some phases of modern weapons—a view also held by the Alsop brothers, whose column is a frequent feature of this page.

Both these sources advocate an immediate speed-up in Western research and production of advanced weapons. It would be difficult, even for a pacifist, to oppose such a view these days. When war was of a nature and conducted at a speed whereby a partially disarmed country could re-arm before any vital damage was done by an enemy, there was much to be said in favor of the example of idealism provided by a policy of disarmament.

But when almost complete national annihilation could be the effect of a one-night raid by an enemy, few countries will be willing to risk that fate through unpreparedness. Disarmament, unless it is universal, is not feasible or possible in the atomic age. He who attempts to "lead the way" under such circumstances may well lead it to oblivion.

A Surplus of Too Much

ONE OF THE REASONS MARTIANS, circling the earth in their flying saucers, do not land is that they fear so lousy-turvy a planet might wreck the delicate balance of their aircraft.

They might well have been observing, for instance, the situation in Pennsylvania, where a farmer, John Harmon, is in trouble with the law for planting 24 acres of wheat instead of nine. By so doing he ran afoul of the Government's "blasted forms" and all kinds of red tape, all designed to prevent existing surplus stocks of grain from becoming even bigger and so increasing the cost to the Government, which buys up what cannot otherwise be sold.

But Harmon claims he has never accepted subsidies, and never will, and he sees no reason why he should not grow what he wants when he wants to.

The crime of producing wealth in the form of food is peculiar to our day and age. While we sympathize with the starving millions of Asia and other unfortunate parts of the globe, we can give them only small helpings of our surplus supplies and we punish those who attempt to increase those supplies beyond immediate needs.

This all makes sense in some sort of a way, but it is far beyond the ability of the Martians to understand. They will do well to circle until things get back to normal.

THE CITIZEN'S PURSE

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

No One Loses Anything

OTTAWA—The recent false report that British Columbia will suffer a large loss of revenue under the Federal Government's new tax plan, and that Quebec will receive a special bonus, is the result of a complete misunderstanding. The fact is that under Plan C, as the proposed new tax formula is called, no province can suffer any loss of revenue and Quebec will be treated exactly like all the other provinces. That is the chief virtue of Plan C—it puts every province on the same footing.

Hutchison

Since the existing tax agreements began early in the last war, the provinces have not been on the same footing. Each made its own deal with the Federal Government and the deals differed widely.

British Columbia has occupied, all this time, a superior position. Now that superiority is to be abolished. Hence the legend that British Columbia will lose revenue.

Actually, the Federal Government agrees, under Plan C, to make sure that no province receives less in future federal grants than it receives next year under the existing tax agreements. But British Columbia probably will not receive as much money as it would receive if those agreements were continued.

Present Subsidies

No one can be absolutely sure about that, however, since the present federal subsidies are based partly on the fluctuations of the nation's total income. If that income were to fall British Columbia's present subsidies would fall with it. Under the new formula an immovable floor will be placed under British Columbia's subsidies.

Plan C as it stands proposes that the Federal Government exempt provincial taxpayers from 10 per cent of their federal income tax, 8 per cent of their corporation taxes and 50 per cent of their succession duties.

If British Columbia agreed to this arrangement it would levy those three taxes for itself up to the amount of the exemptions, thus avoiding any double tax on its citizens. Ottawa, however, would collect the revenues as it is doing now and hand them over to the province.

In the fiscal year 1954-55 British Columbia is receiving $46,028,000 from Ottawa because it has agreed not to collect these three taxes. Under the exemption formula it would receive only $37,804,000. If Plan C ended there British Columbia would suffer a heavy loss. But Plan C does not end there.

In the first place, Ottawa agrees to make an "equalization" grant to all provinces that cannot collect a certain minimum of revenue from the three basic taxes. As mentioned in a previous dispatch, this equalization grant will be automatic and applied equally to all provinces.

Each year the Federal Government will calculate the per capita yield of these taxes in Ontario and British Columbia, the two richest provinces. By pooling the figures in these provinces Ottawa will arrive at a figure and then every province will be entitled to a subsidy sufficient to bring its revenues up to that figure. In the current year the figure is $31.78 per capita. Every province will be assured of that much revenue. As the nation's wealth grows the figure will rise rapidly.

Progressive Basis

It will rise much more rapidly than the nation's income for the reason that the three basic taxes are levied on a "progressive" basis. That is to say, high incomes pay relatively high tax rates. When incomes increase and move into higher tax brackets, the revenue yield increases faster than the incomes. Hence Plan C enables the provinces to share the nation's prosperity immediately and massively.

In the second place, if the nation's income falls in bad times, the provinces are protected by the basic floor. They will always receive as much money as they receive next year regardless of economic conditions. Thus a new foundation is placed under the nation's whole economy.

The equalization grant mentioned above would give British Columbia $2,431,000 in the present year. That would bring its revenues from the three basic taxes and federal subsidies up to $40,255,000, well below its present subsidies of $46,028,000. But Ottawa will make up the difference. The provincial treasury can suffer no loss and can expect substantial gains as the nation's wealth grows.

Why, it will be asked, did British Columbia gain a superior position in the existing agreements? It was granted relatively high federal subsidies because it agreed to abandon the collection of the basic taxes at the highest rate then prevailing in any province. Since it was surrendering relatively large revenues it received relatively large federal grants.

For three reasons Ottawa is not prepared to maintain British Columbia's special position.

Equal Footing

It feels that the time has come when all provinces should be placed on an equal footing. It feels also that British Columbia has been pretty amply compensated, by fourteen years of specially high subsidies, for its surrender of the basic taxes. Opinions may differ on those two points but the third point is unanswerable.

Ottawa is not attempting and has no power to limit the tax collections of the provincial Government in these three tax fields. British Columbia need not abide by the exemption formula. It can levy any tax it desires on the private and corporate income and on the estates of British Columbians. Its hands are absolutely free.

But if British Columbia levies an income tax of more than 10 per cent of the federal tax, a succession duty of more than 8 per cent of the federal tax, and a succession duty above 50 per cent then the provincial taxpayers will not be exempted above those amounts, from corresponding federal taxes. If the Provincial Government chooses to go beyond these exemptions British Columbia taxpayers will be double-taxed on the same income.

The exemption formula is not finally fixed at the figures mentioned. Ottawa is prepared to bargain on this point and in the end probably will raise the exemption limit. It cannot go very far, though, without imperilling its own revenues. For the exemption to the provincial taxpayer means, of course, a loss of money to the national treasury.

Counter-Proposal

These proposals do not suit Premier Bennett. Without going into the details of his counter-proposal it can be said that it would involve an extra cost to the Federal Government of $230 millions a year on the basis of the existing national income. This money would have to be supplied by the Canadian taxpayers at large and British Columbians would pay their full share of it. They could not escape the cost of Mr. Bennett's demands.

But Mr. Bennett has gone much farther than that. He promises, if a Social Credit Government is elected in Ottawa, to abolish the federal sales tax. This would cost the Federal Government about $600 millions a year. Mr. Bennett is really asking Ottawa to assume an extra load of about $830 millions, which the national taxpayers (British Columbians among them) would have to make up in some new form of taxes. No Federal Government could possibly consider such a proposal.

As for Quebec, it will receive no "bonus" as some newspapers recently reported. It will be given the same treatment as other provinces but its position will be greatly improved because it will receive federal grants which it long refused to accept, at huge cost to its treasury.

Apart from Plan C altogether, the British Columbia treasury is probably in a more opulent position than the treasury of any other province. It is piling up a large current revenue surplus. Whereas the Federal Government, from which British Columbia demands more help, is operating on a heavy deficit and will be lucky to balance its budget next year, even in the middle of an unprecedented boom.

United States Wheat Sales

In your Oct. 21 news columns I see an item from Washington headlined "Canada, U.S. Wheat Discussions Frank." The following point I reckon as the core of the story: "Benson (U.S. agriculture secretary) told the group that, while the U.S. is pursuing an aggressive program of sales and disposal of surpluses, 'we have tried all along not to disrupt world markets.'" (UP).

I happen to be one of your readers with a yen for keeping reasonably well-posted on the world wheat scene; so the above report caught my interest. I imagine that other readers in town and country would appreciate the following brace of paragraphs from one of the farm papers and would like to measure same against the background of the aforesaid Washington story: (1) "Recently the United States sold $21,850,000 worth of wheat—about 11,000,000 bushels—to Yugoslavia, to be paid for in Yugoslav currency . . ."; and (2) "In the case of wheat sold by U.S. to Yugoslavia in September, the U.S. got a little more than $180, in terms of Yugoslav currency, per bushel. For that same bushel the CCC (Commodity Credit Corporation) paid over $3. Consequently, on each bushel the U.S. lost not less than $120. This does not count the cost of ocean transportation paid by CCC, or the differential involved by accepting local currency rather than dollars."

"FAIR DEAL" (?)

Geneva Spirit Gone Sour?

BY JOSEPH ALSOP, from Washington

THE remarkable result of the first manifestation of the "Spirit of Geneva" is still being generally underrated. Most people in the United States cannot quite believe, as yet, that there really is a serious danger of war in the Middle East. At the U.S. State Department, however, the Soviet sale of arms to Egypt, Syria and Saudi Arabia is frankly stated to have produced a warlike situation of extreme danger. The chances of full-scale war breaking out between Egypt and Israel are variously estimated, of course. But at least one highly responsible authority has stated that the odds are even on an outbreak of war with which the harassed Western Foreign Ministers are trying to cope at the current Geneva conference, in the intervals of arid debate with Vyacheslav Molotov. And this Middle Eastern hornet's nest was stirred up by the Kremlin when the ink was hardly dry on the final communiqué of the summit meeting at Geneva whose famous "spirit" the Foreign Ministers are now supposed to translate into justice.

It can now be disclosed, furthermore, that the first sales pitch to the Egyptians, to purchase surplus Soviet arms at a low price, was actually made before the summit meeting.

SMILING VENEER

The Soviet feeler was put out early last spring, in talks between the Czech and Egyptian Ambassadors in one of the Western capitals. Thus Khrushchev and Bulganin went to their summit meeting with President Eisenhower full of smiles and soap, but with full knowledge, too, that they were about to create a Middle Eastern crisis bristling with menace to the Western Powers.

To drive the point home, as it were, an exactly parallel operation is plainly taking shape at the other end of the Middle Eastern fertile crescent, in Afghanistan.

The country is small and infinitely remote but it is strategically situated. It lies on the flank of Iran. It is the route from Russia to India. In the wicked old imperialist days, the British fought their Afghan wars with the main object of preventing Russia from gaining the upper hand in Afghanistan.

There have been warning signals in Afghanistan for a considerable period. The present king, Mohammed Zahir Shah, is strongly influenced by his cousin and prime minister, Prince Daoud. The policy and the administration of Afghanistan are largely in the hands, today, of Prince Daoud and the minister of finance, Aqil Malik. And Abdul-Malik and Prince Daoud have been playing at putting their hands in the bear's mouth.

Thus far, the game has chiefly taken the form of accepting Soviet credits and admitting large numbers of Soviet technicians to build the roads, granaries, oil storage facilities, and other works on which the Soviet credits are being spent.

The total of the Soviet credits has been substantially less than the total of American technical aid and of U.S. Export-Import Bank loans to Afghanistan, but the political pay-off seems to have been substantially greater.

Now, moreover, a new phase almost certainly lies ahead. The Afghan radio has just announced the departure of a special mission to Czechoslovakia, to discuss arms purchases there—which is another version of the Egyptian pattern. In addition, Messrs. Khrushchev and Bulganin are to visit the Afghan capital, Kabul, on their way to or from their visit to India's Prime Minister Nehru.

KHRUSHCHEV-BULGANIN VISIT

The Khrushchev-Bulganin visit to Kabul is expected to produce a new Soviet-Afghan treaty, an arms agreement and an economic agreement. The first effect will be to bring Afghanistan rather decisively within the Soviet sphere of influence. But this will not be the only effect.

With Afghanistan under Soviet influence, and with Tibet being dotted with Sino-Soviet air bases and laced with Chinese military roads, the two great Communist powers will command the historic conquerors' approaches to the Indian sub-continent.

All of India's long series of invaders, from the dawn-time when the Aryan war bands poured out of the Himalayas to destroy Mohenjodaro and Harappa, came by these routes into the British, who arrived by sea.

Tibet and Afghanistan may seem remote to the United States, but they do not seem remote to Indians with historical memories. Communist control of these positions must inevitably affect the course of events in India.

AFGHAN-PAKISTAN BITTERNESS

One kind of effect can already be foreseen. Afghanistan and Western-aided Pakistan have been engaged in a fruitless but bitter and interminable dispute about their borders, and about the status of people of Afghan stock living within Pakistan. Feeling ran so high last spring that the Pakistanis closed the border during most of the summer, thus cutting off almost all Afghan trade with the outer world except through the Soviet Union.

Soviet arms in Afghan hands will certainly make new trouble between the Afghans and the Pakistanis, as Soviet arms in Egyptian hands have made trouble between the Egyptians and the Israelis.

So the result of the next manifestation of the "Spirit of Geneva" is likely to be the same as the result that now confronts us—another menacing crisis in a region of great strategic importance.

As Our Readers See It

VIOLATING NATURAL LAW

The interest of the British Commonwealth today has been stirred as never before by the violation of a basic natural law, the law of natural selection.

By what authority does the church condemn this law? The State may oppose it by reason of certain laws on the statute books. But these laws can be amended if found impractical, unhuman and a violation of natural laws. The ordinary marriage contract is an agreement between two people of opposite sexes to establish a home for themselves and their offspring. To make the family situation secure the state ratifies the agreement, but the church simply solemnizes the contract by a religious ceremony, but has no voice in the actual agreement.

This letter was prompted by the picture of Princess Margaret published in the Times of Oct. 31. To me it depicted her hopeless realization and acceptance of her fate. The forces against her were beyond her strength and power to successfully oppose. She has the heartfelt sympathy of all who are human like herself.

MEDIEVAL LEGACY

Educated for the Roman priesthood, thus never blind to the great difficulties against which the early church struggled nor her positive achievements in morality, learning, and the arts, the widely respected philosopher and religious historian, Will Durant, in the fourth volume of his great work, "The Story of Civilization," has this to say of our legacy from the medieval church . . .

"We have not fully recovered from the Dark Ages: the insecurity that exiles greed, the fear that fosters cruelty, the poverty that breeds filth and ignorance, the filth that generates disease, the ignorance that begets credulity, superstition, occultism—these still survive amongst us; and the dogmatism that festers into intolerance and the Inquisition only awaits opportunity or permission to oppress, kill, ravage, and destroy."

The last part of that statement is not lightly made, but comes from the earnest awareness of a most capable modern observer of the present-day trend in human affairs.

Morning Waits

IT JUST so happened that, for a portion of this past summer, three members of our household had to put up with the nuisance of plaster casts.

It didn't seem to slow them up to any great extent. But it did slow me. Because, what with X-ray sessions, and having casts put on and taken off, and waiting while dirty disinfecting ones were exchanged for others fresh as driven snow, I seemed to spend a lot of time in the waiting room of an emergency ward.

Ruth

Mercifully, nothing terrible came in while I was there, but I saw a steady stream of human beings suffering in minor ways.

I kept wondering now how they all got on. I wonder about the boy with his foot in a cast. Just jumped out of a tree, said the grey-haired woman who was with him. No, she wasn't his mother, she said. She was his Grannie, but he lived with her because both his parents were working. "I don't approve of it," she said. "But you know how it is these days. They think they have to have all the household gadgets on the market. I raised six children myself without half the stuff they seem to need for two."

I wonder, also, about the brown-eyed child with the broken arm. The woman with him was grey-haired too. But she was his mother. Her other children were grown up and married, she said. And this—with a nod towards her composed and tidy child—was Little Mr. Afterthought. (Little Mr. Afterthought looked faintly sick at this maternal babbling, but at least it took his mind off the broken arm.)

I think of the white-faced young woman who came in holding one hand wrapped in a clean white dish towel.

"Caught it in the wringer," explained the police officer who brought her in. "And maybe she could lie down right away," because she pretty near passed out down there along the passage."

Thick and fast they all came in—the boy who'd hurt his foot on his motor bike the day before, the man who'd fallen off a load of lumber and ricked his back, the 17-year-old who was working for a roofing outfit as his vacation job, the old man who explained that he'd come over all dizzy-like, and he figured it was just another of these spells.

I saw the mother who was quite convinced that her little girl had swallowed a bobby pin, and couldn't really believe that the X-ray showed nothing, and that if, as the doctor suggested, she looked again at home, she might find it on the floor.

I saw the young father whose toddler had slipped in the bathroom and fallen against the toilet-seat, and cut her lip. There was nothing to see on the outside at all, but her mother was worried that it might spoil her looks when she grew up. And if the doctor could fix it up right away, he said, because they were just leaving for a fishing trip up-Island.

I think of the little boy who'd been whacked on the head with a baseball bat. He was holding the right side of his head because the left side hurt him too much. His mother was still wearing her apron underneath her coat. Her face wasn't made up. Her hair was wild. She'd just done the breakfast things, she said, and was starting on the wash, and he'd gone out to play baseball, and he hadn't been gone two minutes.

"These baseball bats," muttered the nurse as she hurried past me. "We get them all the time."

And a morning like this divides me quite completely. With half of me, I see the people with a sort of photographic eye, as if they were a series of shots in a fast-moving film. With the other half, I feel them with all my heart. Because these are the incidents that most wives—and mothers—know. Nearly all of us, at one time or another, have had to rush our nearest and dearest up to an emergency ward.

It's a part of life we'd willingly do with out. But none of us is likely to.

The Thrill That Comes Once in a Lifetime

Hospital Employees Seek Wage Increase

Wage increases for new hospital and civic employees' contracts on Vancouver Island are expected to be asked soon notwithstanding a provincial government order to hold-the-line on operating costs.

First demands to be made by hospital workers will be from 500 employees in Nanaimo, Ladysmith and Duncan in mid-November when 1956 contracts open.

Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt municipal employees are in the process of giving notice to reopen contracts, but their demands will not be released until negotiations start.

Saanich, Sooke, Courtenay and Nanaimo school board employees, and Campbell River and Nanaimo civic employees have already given notice to reopen, with demands almost sure to include wage hikes.

New demands by hospital workers have not been fully presented to hospitals as yet, employees' secretary William Black said, but he has hinted there may be strife before contracts are settled.

Victoria civic departments will file notice of contract negotiations later this year.

Labor Will Continue to Press For Holiday Pay Stamp Books

The provincial government will be asked to reconsider before abandoning a possible system of holidays-with-pay stamp credits sought by organized labor in B.C.

Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council will ask serious consideration of a stamp book scheme, members decided Wednesday night. The council was one of the groups which early advocated the system, which is in effect in Ontario and Alberta for seasonal workers.

The government is investigating the scheme, whereby employees are credited throughout the period of employment with stamps based on their rate of pay. Stamps are affixed in a book and records kept.

At the termination of employment, or at an established annual date, the book may be cashed for the value of stamps it contains and employees then have funds for a holiday with pay. Department of labor officials have indicated that the scheme looks costly and complicated.

Carpenters' delegate, Victor

Midgley, said the government is now depriving the workers of B.C. of a properly-administered holiday-with-pay system.

Presently, workers receive holiday pay on regular paydays, and consequently spend the money as it is received. They then have no holiday money when vacation time comes around, the delegate explained.

"Effect of the Holidays With Pay Act continues to be nullified," he said.

Clerks' delegate John Aubrey moved council should ask a "reasonable and sensible answer from the city" as to whether it proposes to construct off-street parking areas with funds derived from parking meters and fines for over-parking. Members approved.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

A Color-TV Star Is Born

LONDON—There are numerous ways of becoming famous overnight but Ann Veronica Matthews has done it in a way that's unique, for Britain anyway.

Of course, as I write this, she is not famous yet. I haven't seen tomorrow's papers, but it's a safe bet she'll be plastered all over them.

Here's what happened: I was invited—along with 200 other press people—to the first showing of British color-TV. We were the first of the public to have a peek at this hitherto highly secret development.

Color-TV has been going out on regular late-night and noon broadcasts, but nobody except BBC technicians has been able to pick it up for the pretty elementary reason that there are no color TV receivers around.

But now the curtain has been lifted and one felt that it was quite an historic occasion. This feeling was heightened by the fact that the demonstration was done in precisely the same studios at Alexandra Palace, where another important event had taken place on Nov. 2, 1936—the broadcasting of the world's first-ever television program.

How was British color-TV? Excellent. Everybody was agreeably surprised. I had expected that it might look akin to the results when I take a color snap—somewhat experimental, colors not too faithful, a bit fuzzy. But not a bit of it. The picture was sharp and the colors true. At the questions period even the experts from the radio-TV journals were hard put to it to find faults.

Also—this is very important factor with color-TV—the black and white picture picked up from the color transmission was fine, too. This, apparently, is one of the big snags. You've got to have a system that can be picked up equally well both ways.

The subject matter of what we were shown brings us to Ann Veronica Matthews. She was a BBC stenographer chosen at random to go in front of the color-TV camera and no sooner had her golden hair and warm, friendly smile flashed on the screen than everyone virtually sat up and took notice.

When the transmission was over the Fleet Street photographers and newsmen made a bee-line for her. The technical, dry-as-dust handouts on the significance of color-TV (which, incidentally, even the experts can't even hazard a guess as to when the British public will get it) were cast aside and someone had to rush and prepare a quick hand-out on Ann Veronica.

"Will there be something about me in a Toronto paper?" she said to me with disarming innocence.

"You don't know what's hit you," I said, glancing at the newsmen and photographers falling over each other to enthrone Britain's first color-TV star.

Opinions on Selective Logging Of Thetis Lake Park Divided

TODAY'S QUESTION: As it does not appear likely that the question of logging sections of the Thetis Lake watershed will be settled before elections, would you please ask candidates for their stand on the matter?

MAYOR CLAUDE HARRISON:

The mayor has already registered strong opposition and did not add to his statements today.

But he is preparing a statement to accompany a veto on the resolution which he will deliver to council at its next regular meeting. He has urged that the park be handed over to the provincial government for development without cutting of timber.

MAYORALTY CANDIDATE P. B. SCURRAH:

"In my opinion that is a valuable property for the city to have so close to its borders. We must be careful not to destroy its natural beauty. I'm not familiar with what the intentions of council were. But if it is not settled and I am elected I will go into it very thoroughly. I will have to decide the wisest course of action. I think the public ought to know what is meant by selective logging."

MAYORALTY CANDIDATE W. A. SCOTT:

"By God's hand Victoria was made unsurpassed in the world. But by officialdom's hand—the most ugly (I refer to the Gorge and the Library addition). A little wait—not rush and destroy beauty at Thetis Lake—is for our common good."

ALDERMAN GEOFFREY EDGELOW:

"The public works committee brought in a recommendation calling for selective logging in an unusable area.

"That is not the area referred to as park—it is watershed area. Selective logging there would not affect the park and wouldn't be seen. Calling for tenders doesn't mean that logging will take place. I feel it is one way to get funds to beautify the park without in any way touching the park area.

"The area is either mountainous or swamp and cannot even be entered on horseback."

ALDERMANIC CANDIDATE MRS. LILY WILSON:

"I don't know much about logging but would favor saving the park as much as possible in its natural state for the people to enjoy."

ALDERMANIC CANDIDATE ELMER D. McEWEN:

"I think our parks can be made self-supporting without logging through city-owned concessions, an entrance fee or parking charges. Those that use the parks would willingly pay, I believe."

ALDERMANIC CANDIDATE HUGH RAMSAY:

"The council should exert every effort to have the provincial government take over The Thetis Lake Park and develop its picnic sites, beaches, etc.

"I appreciate the intent of council to develop the park on a self-sufficient basis, but I am sure the development will cause in the areas that are to be logged will be a sacrifice and lost to the public for years to come."

"With the new highway and its accompanying development Thetis Lake Park will be on the city outskirts in 10 years' time. I will do everything in my power to see that preservation and conservation of Thetis Lake Park is carried out."

nothing finer!

Candidates give opposing views on the question of Thetis Lake logging in today's election forum. The question was chosen for its timeliness. City council has already moved to call for tenders for selective logging to finance a park beautification program.

If you have a question to ask Victoria civic election candidates send it to the Times and reporters will seek candidate answers.

Questions should be short and be submitted one to a letter.

Explosives Expert Probes Airliner Crash

LONGMOUNT, Colo. (AP)—United Air Lines announced Wednesday night an airliner which crashed Tuesday, killing all 44 aboard, apparently exploded in the air. The company has hired an explosives expert to investigate.

Among the victims who included 39 passengers and a crew of five, was Mrs. Alma Winsor of St. John's, Nfld., mother of six. She was en route to Seattle to visit a daughter.

W. A. Patterson, air line president, said in Chicago: "All evidence now strongly indicates this accident resulted from an explosion in the air."

However, an air line spokesman said "sabotage is not considered" as a possible cause.

Patterson said United "has retained the services of Charles Wilson, an outstanding authority in the field of explosives who is affiliated with the crime laboratory of the state of Wisconsin" to investigate the crash.

The AFL Flight Engineers' Union is on strike against United and pilots with engineers' licences have taken the place of some of the strikers.

VANCOUVER — A former Vancouver couple, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Morgan, now living in Chicago, was among those killed when the United Air Lines' plane crashed in Colorado.

Mr. Morgan, 48, an efficiency expert, and his wife, the former Anne Kerr, aged 40, were on their way to Vancouver on a combined business and pleasure trip.

The Morgans, who leave daughters Sharon, 14, and Susan, 12, were both educated in Vancouver and left here for San Francisco about eight years ago.

Earlier, they had spent some years in South Africa, and were married while on the way there.

Mr. Morgan, a UBC graduate, and former amateur hockey player with Vancouver, was the son of Mr. F. W. Morgan, North Vancouver.

Vancouver Aims for Biggest, Wackiest Grey Cup Ever

By RAYMOND KYLE

British United Press Staff Correspondent
VANCOUVER, B.C. (BUP)—The first Grey Cup game ever to be staged in the west promised today also to be the richest and most spectacular since the first east-west football final was held in Toronto's varsity stadium in 1921.

Mayor Fred Hume said, "it'll be the biggest and best Grey Cup day ever," after a $25 a plate dinner which saw an outline of plans to make it the greatest sports festival ever staged in Canada.

The decision to move the game west had been made at the annual meeting of the Canadian Rugby Union here this spring. The remarkable financial success of the British Columbia Lions and the erection of Empire Stadium were prime factors behind the move.

There was no doubt this year's game would be the richest in history. A record attendance just shy of the 40,000 mark will provide gate receipts of about $190,000. Radio, television, film and program rights will net another $70,000. Previous record receipts were $198,748.72 in 1954 and previous Grey Cup attendance record was 27,391 in 1952.

Hardly before the outraged cries at losing the Grey Cup game had died down in Toronto, expansive plans were being made for the game here.

After several false starts, arrangements made through the Lions, the Western Interprovincial Football Union and the CRU resulted in formation of a Grey Cup committee and a host of sub-committees.

The week of Nov. 20-26 will be known as "Grey Cup Week," culminating in a parade Saturday morning and the game in the afternoon.

A reception committee is planning parades, bands, Chinatown displays and yachting trips for visitors. Reception committee chairman Bill Clancy said signs will be erected throughout the city reading "welcome to Vancouver" and trains and planes will be met by a nine-piece band. Six members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, headed by Ralph Good-murphy, will meet football trains at Edmonton and Calgary and travel to Vancouver with the fans.

Christmas tree lights will light up Vancouver streets and buildings and merchants have been asked to decorate their shops and leave their lights on until midnight.

Adding to the festival atmosphere, a Grey Cup totem bonspiel will be run off during the week, with big name curlers competing for $10,000 in prizes.

The parade, featuring floats with west coast themes in addition to those of the nine football clubs and a bevy of beauties, will be a mile and a half long taking 75 minutes to pass each point on its route through the downtown business section to Empire Stadium.

The night before the game, as usual, will be given over to the Grey Cup dinner and a dance at which "Miss Grey Cup" will be selected. The dinner will be attended by a record 1,600 persons, at which the awards for the best football player in Canada and the best Canadian football player will be made.

A record crowd of more than 39,000 will be on hand for the game itself, with every seat filled in the $1,350,000 Empire Stadium, provided rent-free by the Pacific National Exhibition.

Build by the PNE on the site of a former nine-hole golf course for the British Empire Games in 1954, normal seating capacity of the horseshoe-shaped structure is 25,537. Additional bleacher seats around the field will increase seating to 31,520 and about 8,000 standing room only tickets also will be sold.

First-season worries plagued stadium keepers last fall when the turf became a soggy mess because of improper drainage. However, a $56,000 rebuilding job left the gridiron in good shape and players consider it the best field they have ever played on.

For added protection, the PNE spent $21,000 on a green nylon tarpaulin which protects the turf from rain.

The danger of fog was cited by detractors of Vancouver's Grey Cup hopes, particularly after fog left a night game between the Lions and Saskatchewan Roughriders unfinished last season. But the weatherman said this would never be the fate of an afternoon game.

The crush for tickets and hotel rooms started the day the CRU made its decision to play the game here last March 26. Other western conference cities soon got in the act. A Vancouver fan who thought he would get a ticket by joining the Edmonton Eskimo booster club—only to find that the defending champion club's ticket allocation had already been snapped up.

Accommodation threatened to be the greatest problem. The situation is simply—no reservation, no room.

A special accommodations committee was set up to help visiting fans find rooms. Ben Williams, head of the committee, advised fans needing help to write or wire the committee in care of the Vancouver City Hall.

The west has won the Grey Cup only five times in 28 years, but western fans hoped for an unprecedented two-years in a row triumph following Edmonton's victory in 1954. They hoped that the fact the final was being played on a western field would help.

Early in the Grey Cup week, the competing teams will ride through Vancouver in convertibles en route to their training camps after their arrival here. The two caravans will signal the start of what will probably be the wackiest week in Vancouver's history.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

Canadian football has, in the past few years, become one of Canada's major sports.

It has reached a tremendous and ever-growing popularity. Locally, the advent of the B.C. Lions in the Western Interprovincial Football Union and television of U.S. professional football games have brought the game closer than ever before.

Professional football is a costly, yet successful enterprise on both sides of the border.

It has outlived numerous charges of being slightly more than rugged, at the same time being no game for panty-waists.

Bert Bell, the president of the National Football League, has said: "Our league plays hard, competitive football, but never dirty football."

Personally we always thought Mr. Bell could have omitted the word "never."

And with the arrival of our monthly copy of Sport Magazine in the post this week, we're certain of that fact, plus a few others.

In one of the most revealing exposes of what goes on behind the scenes, a pro lineman tells all.

"Football is filthy dirty," he says.

"The penalties are only for the infractions the fans in the stands can see. The blood and guts stuff takes place in the line."

The author is anonymous, naturally. He is still an active player.

But he holds no punches in telling what he knows of the game.

And he scores the officials as well as Mr. Bell for allowing the organized mayhem to continue.

"It isn't a game the way it's being played now," says the vet. Otto Graham called it vicious last year, but according to Sport's unnamed author, Otto was far too polite.

"It's become sadistic," he asserts.

Chief Offenders Named; Secrets Bared

He illustrates his points by describing some of the basic mayhem that is taught, even in College days, the pro football being more proficient at the art. That's the big difference.

The trade secrets all have names like the "fore-arm shiver," "red dog," "hi lo," "Missouri Block," "Opening the gates."

The author also names names.

He identifies the most "rugged" players and asks for their banishment from the game.

The officials are as much to blame as anyone, he says. And he infers that they are under orders not to engage in "drop the handkerchief" too often or the fans will think the pros are getting soft; or because Mr. Bell will take their handkerchiefs away from them.

There isn't room here to repeat all the dodges used by the pros. But the simple fact, that when it is decided that a certain opponent must be removed from the game, that opponent is removed, and usually on a stretcher, or by ambulance, is manifest proof that pros are lucky they don't end up as cripples.

If you're a football fan, you'll appreciate the article, because in it nothing is held back. It's survival of the fittest and few survive a season without getting hurt, some seriously.

You Play By Their Rules or . . .

Which brings to mind the story told us a few years ago by a former pro.

He stood six feet, four-inches in height and weighed 245 pounds. His position was fullback. He figured that he could take most punishment.

That's what he figured until he became a pro.

It was about the third or fourth time that he carried the ball that he suddenly learned some rules he didn't know before.

He attempted to crawl forward a few yards after being partially stopped on a play. The next thing he felt was an elbow in the nose. Then followed a knee in the ribs. Then a foot on his face.

"I never tried to make an extra inch after that," he said.

The charges made in the magazine piece are serious indeed. It is obvious that they are based on fact. And just as obvious why often in the heat of a pro game, the television cameras, which are under league direction, suddenly swing away from what at first glance appears to be extra-curricular activity that isn't included in the script.

Or as this pro says:

"What can I honestly tell my kids?"

It is to be hoped the article has the desired result.

Football itself deserves to have its name cleaned—by those who play the game, and govern it.

Carpenter May Miss Grid Playoff Opener

REGINA (CP)—Saskatchewan Roughriders may be without the services of their top-scoring half-back when they meet Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the opening game in the Western Interprovincial Football Union semi-final here Saturday.

Ken Carpenter, the league's top scorer, injured his left knee last Saturday night in Winnipeg and has been in hospital since Sunday morning. He was to have been released from hospital Wednesday but he was still listed only as a possible starter Saturday.

Carpenter hurt his knee when he kicked Riders' first punt and was felled on the play.

"Carpenter may, or may not, be able to play Saturday," hospital officials said. "A lot will probably depend on the condition of the field. If the traction is poor, it wouldn't be wise to dress Carpenter."

CAGERS OPEN SEASON TONIGHT

Senior B Hoop Born of Class

Now that Senior A basketball will be in Victoria only on infrequent visits, local eyes are turning to the Senior B League.

And this league, which fits perfectly Babe Pratt's famous analysis of "hungry rookies and thirsty veterans," promises to reward the glances.

The four-team circuit opens tonight at Central Junior High School's gleaming gym when Vampires meet Farmer Construction. The other two teams are Baker's and Drakes.

Just for the record, this league offers a basketball team, a football team, Canada's greatest basketball player of the half-century (1900-1950) and an ambitious team of 20-year-olds coached and managed by an ambitious 19-year-old.

First of all, there is Farmer Construction, formed from the baseball team of the same name, managed by diamond pilot Ed Ash and coached by former Victoria Tye pitcher Bill Prior.

For his court line-up, Prior can choose from two infielders, two catchers, one outfielder and two pitchers.

Switching from baseball flannels to basketball knickerbockers will be big Charlie Boyd, Bernie Anderson, Ron Karadimas, Bill Garner, Jack Shields, Jim Harford and Lowell Hodges. In addition, the club will be strengthened by the addition of Gordy Jones, former senior A player with a deadly jump shot and lanky bucket-man Don 'Stretch' Strank.

In the molekin brigade, the Drake Hotel gridders have entered a team that could be the best conditioned team in the circuit, Drakes still being in the pursuit of gridiron glory.

Harry Turner, destructive football guard, will manage the club, which has no coach at present.

The team will be chosen from Don Hendry, veteran senior A player, Jack Sims, Pete Turko, Mel Davidson, Tillman Briggs, Mort Graham, Bill Brown, George Wilson and Reg Lott. Drakes play their first game one week tonight when they meet Baker's.

The Baker's club is coached and managed by Norm Baker, selected as Canada's greatest player of the half-century in a nationwide poll in 1950. The name of the club, Baker's, is a necessity and will remain that way until a sponsor is secured.

Norm himself plans to play, coach and manage and will select his team from Vince Clark, Earl Pearson of Nanaimo, Walt Acreman, Gordy Bamford and Pee-wee Bradshaw.

PEEWEE IN ACTION

Bradshaw, the five-foot-not-much-more import star of the Victoria Shamrock lacrosse club, is touted as quite a basketball player. The entire team is well experienced, Baker, Clark, Bamford, Davies and Acreman all having played senior A ball.

The youngsters of the league will be Vampires, coached and managed by 19-year-old Paul Clarkson, who promises, "no one will ever beat us by more than 10 points."

Vampire candidates include Ron Martin, who has switched from Farmers; Ken Stokes, one-armed wizard; Ace McMeekin, tall centre Paul Simpson, Stan Stewart, Stu Morrison, Reg Derr, Bernie Sam and Dick Sleep, another former senior A player.

Benning Cup Golf

Mrs. R. Moulds, with a net score of 209-59-150, won the third round of the Benning Cup competition at Victoria Golf Club.

In the monthly medal competition played Tuesday, Mrs. J. D. Munro, with 94-18-76, took the silver division honors, while Mrs. R. B. Wilson won out in the bronze division with 106-33-71.

GEOFFRION RETURNS

MONTREAL (BUP)—Bernard (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, the National Hockey League's scoring leader last year, goes back on the firing line against Toronto tonight.

The Montreal Canadiens' star was injured early in the first game this season also against Toronto, when a violent boarding left him writhing on the ice with torn back and chest muscles.

UNOFFICIAL RECOMMENDATION

Lions' Membership Backs Annis Stukus

VANCOUVER (CP)—Three hundred members of the British Columbia Lions football club Wednesday night recommended the club directors reconsider their decision to fire head coach Annis Stukus.

The recommendation was made at an unofficial meeting of the club membership called to discuss further action to be taken at an emergency general meeting called Nov. 14.

The recommendation then will be presented as a resolution. Directors will be able to act on it only if approved.

The proposed resolution says: "Annis Stukus has performed a valuable service in the promotion of football in B.C. and whereas the termination of Annis Stukus as head coach of the B.C. Lions is not in the best interests of football in B.C. and whereas he has qualifications for the position of general manager, be it resolved:

"1. Another meeting be called of the directors, with every effort to insure a 100 per cent attendance, for the purpose of reviewing the decision in respect to the position of Annis Stukus. And in the light of relevant facts and circumstances, reversing the decision if deemed appropriate.

"2. In the event the directors confirm their original decision, then we recommend to the directors that Stukus be engaged as general manager of the club."

Stukus was fired last Thursday when the directors voted 13 to 10 against rehiring him for a fourth term. Six of 29 directors were absent.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Three hundred members of the British Columbia Lions football club Wednesday night recommended the club directors reconsider their decision to fire head coach Annis Stukus.

The recommendation was made at an unofficial meeting of the club membership called to discuss further action to be taken at an emergency general meeting called Nov. 14.

The recommendation then will be presented as a resolution. Directors will be able to act on it only if approved.

The proposed resolution says: "Annis Stukus has performed a valuable service in the promotion of football in B.C. and whereas the termination of Annis Stukus as head coach of the B.C. Lions is not in the best interests of football in B.C. and whereas he has qualifications for the position of general manager, be it resolved:

"1. Another meeting be called of the directors, with every effort to insure a 100 per cent attendance, for the purpose of reviewing the decision in respect to the position of Annis Stukus. And in the light of relevant facts and circumstances, reversing the decision if deemed appropriate.

"2. In the event the directors confirm their original decision, then we recommend to the directors that Stukus be engaged as general manager of the club."

Stukus was fired last Thursday when the directors voted 13 to 10 against rehiring him for a fourth term. Six of 29 directors were absent.

CAGERS OPEN SEASON TONIGHT

Senior B Hoop Born of Class

Now that Senior A basketball will be in Victoria only on infrequent visits, local eyes are turning to the Senior B League.

And this league, which fits perfectly Babe Pratt's famous analysis of "hungry rookies and thirsty veterans," promises to reward the glances.

The four-team circuit opens tonight at Central Junior High School's gleaming gym when Vampires meet Farmer Construction. The other two teams are Baker's and Drakes.

Just for the record, this league offers a basketball team, a football team, Canada's greatest basketball player of the half-century (1900-1950) and an ambitious team of 20-year-olds coached and managed by an ambitious 19-year-old.

First of all, there is Farmer Construction, formed from the baseball team of the same name, managed by diamond pilot Ed Ash and coached by former Victoria Tye pitcher Bill Prior.

For his court line-up, Prior can choose from two infielders, two catchers, one outfielder and two pitchers.

Switching from baseball flannels to basketball knickerbockers will be big Charlie Boyd, Bernie Anderson, Ron Karadimas, Bill Garner, Jack Shields, Jim Harford and Lowell Hodges. In addition, the club will be strengthened by the addition of Gordy Jones, former senior A player with a deadly jump shot and lanky bucket-man Don 'Stretch' Strank.

In the molekin brigade, the Drake Hotel gridders have entered a team that could be the best conditioned team in the circuit, Drakes still being in the pursuit of gridiron glory.

Harry Turner, destructive football guard, will manage the club, which has no coach at present.

The team will be chosen from Don Hendry, veteran senior A player, Jack Sims, Pete Turko, Mel Davidson, Tillman Briggs, Mort Graham, Bill Brown, George Wilson and Reg Lott. Drakes play their first game one week tonight when they meet Baker's.

The Baker's club is coached and managed by Norm Baker, selected as Canada's greatest player of the half-century in a nationwide poll in 1950. The name of the club, Baker's, is a necessity and will remain that way until a sponsor is secured.

Norm himself plans to play, coach and manage and will select his team from Vince Clark, Earl Pearson of Nanaimo, Walt Acreman, Gordy Bamford and Pee-wee Bradshaw.

PEEWEE IN ACTION

Bradshaw, the five-foot-not-much-more import star of the Victoria Shamrock lacrosse club, is touted as quite a basketball player. The entire team is well experienced, Baker, Clark, Bamford, Davies and Acreman all having played senior A ball.

The youngsters of the league will be Vampires, coached and managed by 19-year-old Paul Clarkson, who promises, "no one will ever beat us by more than 10 points."

Vampire candidates include Ron Martin, who has switched from Farmers; Ken Stokes, one-armed wizard; Ace McMeekin, tall centre Paul Simpson, Stan Stewart, Stu Morrison, Reg Derr, Bernie Sam and Dick Sleep, another former senior A player.

Benning Cup Golf

Mrs. R. Moulds, with a net score of 209-59-150, won the third round of the Benning Cup competition at Victoria Golf Club.

In the monthly medal competition played Tuesday, Mrs. J. D. Munro, with 94-18-76, took the silver division honors, while Mrs. R. B. Wilson won out in the bronze division with 106-33-71.

GEOFFRION RETURNS

MONTREAL (BUP)—Bernard (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, the National Hockey League's scoring leader last year, goes back on the firing line against Toronto tonight.

The Montreal Canadiens' star was injured early in the first game this season also against Toronto, when a violent boarding left him writhing on the ice with torn back and chest muscles.

Lions' Membership Backs Annis Stukus

Sloan Big Gun In Leaf Victory

Toronto 3, Detroit 1
By The Canadian Press

To Tod Sloan, a goal is like a pay cheque. Every time he scores this season, he comes closer to picking up the richest salary of his National Hockey League career.

The Toronto Maple Leaf centre took a big salary cut this season because of his drop in goal production in 1954-55. But the Leaf management told him he could add to it by scoring plenty of goals.

Sloan scored twice Wednesday night in leading Leafs to a 3-1 victory over Detroit Red Wings in a game that sent Toronto from fifth to second place. He now has seven goals in 11 games this season.

When the 27-year-old Sloan started the season he said he took the "worst salary cut of my career but I have a chance to make it my richest. My contract calls for bonuses if I get 20 goals, then 25 and so on."

The way he has been going he should go over 25 or 30 goals before the 70-game schedule winds up next spring. He hit 31 in the 1950-51 term but had only 11 two years ago and 13 last season.

ROOKIES PAYING OFF

Leaf defenceman Hugh Bolton was, serving a tripping penalty when Balfour opened the scoring at 14:02 of the second period on a pass from Tim Horton.

Sloan's first goal came at 18:56 of the middle frame while John Bucyk of the Wings was serving an interference penalty. Sloan drove home left winger Sid Smith's rebound.

Dineen put the Stanley Cup champions back in the game with a goal from about eight feet out at 3:44 of the third period.

Sloan closed the scoring at 15:20 when he grabbed the puck from wing defenceman Larry Hillman and tallied on a short drive.

All six teams see action tonight. Leafs have a chance to gain ground on Canadiens at Montreal. Red Wings are at home to New York Rangers, one of three teams tied for third place. Chicago Black Hawks and Boston Bruins, the other holders of the third spot, clash at Boston.

Foreign Invaders Get First Look at Laurel

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—Four invading horses for Laurel's big International got their first feel of a United States race track Wednesday.

England's Nucleus and Darius, Ireland's Panasilipper and Canada's Prefect arrived at Laurel Monday for the $65,000 race on Nov. 11. All four were out on the track Wednesday.

Darius Panasilipper and Prefect filed Indian fashion onto the infield grass course on which the Inter-

Feller, 37, Still Dreams Of World Series Victory

By DICK FALES
United Press Sports Writer

CLEVELAND, O. (UP)—Bob Feller, self-styled "old man of the majors," celebrated his 37th birthday today by renewing his hope for his first world series victory.

"I've gotten just about everything else out of baseball a man could ask," Feller said. "All I'd like to have now is a world series game before I call it quits."

Feller, oldest major leaguer in point of service, appeared twice for the Indians in the 1948 series with the then-Boston Braves, and lost both starts. Last year, when the Indians lost four straight to the New York Giants, Feller warmed the bench.

"If we get in the series in '56," he said, "I guess I wouldn't be a starter then either. But maybe I would get a chance to come on in relief, and win one that way."

Once the bellwether of the Cleveland pitching staff, Feller has taken a back seat in recent years to younger stars. Last season, used principally in a fireman role, he compiled a 4-4

Mat Refs Too Honest, Lose Jobs

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Two wrestling referees, Smokey Joe Woods and Al Billings, who testified recently that the mat game was anything but dead serious, have been placed on the unavailable list for future work.

Clayton Fry, chief inspector of the State Athletic Commission, said Wednesday that wrestling promoters around the state have raised such a howl that the commission ordered the two shelved until future action by the commission.

The promoters said Woods and Billings incurred the wrath of the grunt and groaner, and wrestling fans as well, when they told an assembly investigating committee that they were advised beforehand who was to win a match.

Fry said the commission will meet here to go into the matter before its already scheduled session in San Francisco Nov. 12.

'Reformed' Bragan Gets Buc Post

Boy Bobby Bragan, who purposefully "reformed" last season while manager of the Hollywood Stars in anticipation of a promotion, found reward today as pilot of the Pittsburgh Pirates for 1956.

"I promised myself early this year I would behave," Bragan said yesterday following his appointment. "I went the entire season without being tossed—until the 172nd and final game."

"What happened? I made the remark, 'there isn't an umpire on the field.' But I guess there was one. One of them heard me."

Bragan's choice completed the Pirates' version of "third man to theme." When Branch Rickey stepped down last week as boys, Joe L. Brown, took over. Brown insisted the Bragan appointment was his own, although Rickey was close to the scene as an "active advisor."

Bragan succeeds Fred Haney, who also came here after successful seasons at Hollywood only to be dropped on the last day of the 1955 season after a

Alberta Gas Revenues Total $415,000,000

EDMONTON (CP)—The Alberta government took in $21,610,061 Tuesday in its final sale of the year of oil and natural gas rights, the mines department said today.

The sale raises to more than $415,000,000 the total revenue netted by the Alberta government from this source since April 1, 1946.

Offered for sale to the biggest bidders in this sale were rights on 33 parcels in the rich Pembina section, 35 wildcat leases, and parcels in the Bashaw, Eskridge, Big Valley, Hamilton Lake, Joarcan and Stettler areas.

The Pembina sector brought a total of $20,669,263.

Tennessee Gas Transmission Company made the highest bid of the sale, paying $938,412 for the rights on two parcels of about 324 acres each in the Pembina area.

In all, Tennessee Gas paid $6,555,769 for nine parcels in the Pembina field and one in the Eskridge field.

Other major purchasers were Canadian Seaboard Oil Company, Home Oil Co. Ltd., and Canadian Gulf Oil Co.

Canadian Seaboard paid $5,226,849 for eight parcels in the Pembina area. Home Oil purchased rights on 10 parcels in the Pembina field and one in the Eskridge field.

The government took in $557,488 from sales of rights in the Bashaw, Eskridge, Fenn-Big Valley, Hamilton Lake, Joarcan and Stettler areas and another $383,309 from sales on unproven lands.

activity in flax again was the highlight of trade today on the Winnipeg grain exchange.

Shippers and exporters made purchases in flax, while covering orders appeared early in the session. Remainder of the trade was quiet and mostly routine.

Outside reports said Poland was in the market for 100,000 tons—about 4,000,000 bushels—of feeding grades of Canadian wheat.

Two, IWA and domestic wheat were unchanged.

Base Metals

Still Ahead

TORONTO (CP)—The stock

market pushed ahead strongly on the Toronto exchange today.

Base metals led the advances, mostly fractional, and no declines.

Also well ahead were utilities, papers, motors, liquors, steels and miscellaneous issues. Most banks were off fractions.

In a dull uranium section, Algonquin was off 1/4.

Bailey-Selburn, Canadian Atlantic and Merrill Pet improved 20-25 cents in western oils.

NEW YORK (AP)—The

stock market rolled ahead in its strongest rally of the last three weeks today after Standard Oil NJ directors proposed a three-for-one split of that stock.

It jumped around $8 a share after the proposed split accompanied by a dividend hike. That added around $500,000,000 to the quoted value of outstanding shares.

Prices throughout the market were up 1 to 3 points in many key areas and they went on out to around 6 points in some cases.

Canadian stocks were higher. International Nickel gained 1 1/2, McIntyre 1 1/4, Canadian Pacific and Hiram Walker 1/4, and Dome Mines 1/4. Distillers Seagram was off 1/4.

LONDON (Reuters)—The buy-

ant conditions experienced in the London stock market Wednesday continued today, but enthusiasm was dampened by news of fighting in the Middle East.

In engineering Vickers held up well. In motors, British Motor Corporation fell away through profit-taking.

Newsprinters were mostly better but below the best. Coppers were firm and dollar stock irregular.

Stock closings: Babcock & Wilcox 7 1/2, Canadian Pacific 5 1/4, General Electric 5 1/4, Hudson's Bay Co. 1 1/4, Imperial Chemical 4 1/4, Imperial Tobacco 6 1/4, Metal Box 5 1/4, Mexican Eagle 2 1/4, Rand Mines 7 1/4, Royce 10 1/4.

MONTREAL (CP)—Strong

pulp and paper and base metal groups sparked an industrial drive on the stock market today. Improvements ranged to more than 1 1/2 points.

International Nickel, ahead 1 1/2 in brick dealings, was the trend later in base metals.

In the pulp and paper classification, St. Lawrence, Powell River, MacMillan B and International Paper added a point or more.

CHICAGO (AP)—After an

California Oil Group Launches B.C. Program

VANCOUVER (CP)—Richfield

Oil Corporation of California today announced its entry into the British Columbia oil exploration field.

The company, with crews already in the field, has mapped out a drilling program at Stony Lake in Monksman pass, 100 miles northeast of Prince George, 400 miles north of Vancouver.

A working agreement has been signed with Calph Petroleum of Vancouver and Central Leduc Oils Ltd., and Del-Rio Producers Ltd., both of Calgary. It involves more than 200,000 acres in the Stony Lake district.

TO CONTEST

FREIGHT RATE

A long-standing complaint by the city of Vancouver that freight rates on grain moving from the prairies to B.C. for domestic consumption are too high will be heard by the board of transport commissioners at hearings starting here Nov. 21.

Vancouver points out that for the same mileage the rates are between two and three times more than on grain going to the lakehead. Eastbound rates are held down by the Crownst Pass Statute of 1925.

Reeve Denies Legal Threat

DUNCAN—Reeve G. A. P. Murison read a statement to the North Cowichan municipal council Tuesday in which he denied threatening to take legal action to keep the Duncan fire department out of the municipality.

Mayor J. C. Wragg had told the Duncan city council a week ago that the reeve allegedly spoke of such action following a fire alarm turned in from Cowichan High School, which is in the municipality.

Under an agreement with the city, Cowichan District school board pays the city $240 a year for fire protection. The school board recently received a bill for $1,100 from the newly-formed North Cowichan Volunteer Fire Department for fire protection on the high school for the year. The board has to date, refused to meet the bill.

In his statement to council, Reeve Murison said he offered Mayor Wragg the assistance of the North Cowichan brigade, if asked for, in the event of a serious fire at the hospital, the elementary school, Queen Margaret's School, or in the business section, the municipal department to operate by a pre-arranged plan under the direction of the Duncan fire chief.

At the same time the reeve said he asked the mayor for the assistance of the city fire de-

FLATTENED AGAINST WALL BY LOCOMOTIVE

New 'Miracle' Lung Kept Him Alive While His Splintered Body Repaired

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE, CHICAGO (AP) — Surgeons here are talking of a medical miracle, and the part played in it by a simple new artificial lung.

It began with the horrible moment when a steel worker was crushed by a locomotive up against a stone wall. He was a big man, broad-shouldered, weighing 235 pounds.

Yet he was crushed by the monstrous machine into a space only eight inches wide. Ribs and bones splintered. He had 35 fractures and 20 ribs, breast bone, clavicles and pelvic bones broken, internal organs injured.

Surgeons and doctors met him at the hospital door. He was unconscious, so badly hurt it seemed he had absolutely no reason to survive, said Dr. Edward E. Avery.

The simple new lung gave the answer. The story was described to the American College of Surgeons Wednesday by Dr. E. T. Morsch, inventor of the lung; Dr. Avery and Dr. D. W. Benson of Northwestern Medical School and the University of Chicago clinics.

HOW IT WORKS
The man recovered and now is back at work. Since then, the lung has helped polio victims, people with injured chests or those with breathing troubles.

The new lung is a transparent plastic box, two feet wide, three feet long, a foot high. A motor-driven piston pumps air through a tube and valve in pulses, like normal breathing. The air enters through a tube inserted at the throat into the trachea.

Saanich Area Votes Nov. 5 On By-Law

SIDNEY — Ratepayers of School District 63, lying between Royal Oak and the tip of Saanich peninsula, will vote Saturday on a $712,000 school loan by-law.

Location of proposed new schools was made by Brahm Weissman of the Capital Region Planning Board, who advised construction at Wains road and Tanner road, Deep Cove, McTavish road, Sansbury, Brentwood, Sidney, Cordova Bay, North Saanich High, Mount Newton, High, and Royal Oak High schools will have additions.

The by-law was prepared with every step being explained to and approved by ratepayers before the next was undertaken, and trustees have been in constant touch with voters since the beginning of the year.

COST ONE MILL
The $712,000 total is about half that called for in the by-law that was rejected a year ago.

G. L. Chatterton, by-law committee chairman of the District 63 school board, has estimated the by-law will cost each ratepayer about one mill.

Voting will be between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. at the following schools: Deep Cove, North Saanich High, Sidney, McTavish, Sansbury, Saanichton, Brentwood, Keating, Cordova Bay, Prospect Lake, and Royal Oak High. Gordon Hayward of the Central Saanich municipal staff will be returning officer.

Site is at the corner of Chapel and Front Streets, overlooking the harbor. Designers are Birley and Simpson, Victoria architects, and specifications call for fireproof concrete construction. A syndicate is behind the project, Mr. Ney said.

Fireworks Possible Cause Of $50,000 Nanaimo Fire

NANAIMO—A $50,000 fire that damaged an elevator in the Nanaimo Farmers Co-Operative Association early Wednesday morning could have been caused by smouldering firecrackers.

Fire Chief Colin McArthur said children had been seen playing with firecrackers in the vicinity the night before.

Other possible causes considered were spontaneous combustion in grain dust collected at the bottom of the elevator, and a short circuit in motor wiring. Arson was discounted as a cause.

The building and its contents were valued at $150,000, and more than half of the total loss sustained was in ruined feed and grain stored in the building.

All 15 men of the city department, aided by 15 volunteers, fought the blaze, and additional equipment was sent from Brechin.

Heavy corrugated aluminum sheeting lining the elevator shaft was a barrier to water and hindered firemen, but it melted eventually in the intense heat of the blaze.

DODGES DOG, HITS POLE, DAMAGE $800
NANAIMO—Alexander Tait, who swerved his car on the highway near Lantzville Wednesday to avoid hitting a meandering dog, struck a telephone pole and caused $800 damage to his car.

The pole was broken, and fell across his car.

Mr. Tait, a Lantzville resident, was driving home when the accident occurred. He was attended by Dr. J. H. H. Chatway, who came by shortly after, and who described Mr. Tait's injuries as slight.

LPP Candidate Seeks Election To City Council

Ronald McIsaac, city lawyer, also will be a candidate. Council members seeking re-election are Aldermen Haig Burns, Robert Fawdry and William McGregor.

GOP, Demos, Campaigning Now For Important Farm Belt Vote

By ROGER D. GREENE
Associated Press Newsfeatures Writer

Heavy skirmishing has already broken out in the battle for the nation's big "farm belt" vote in 1956. And from now on the din of oratorical cannonading may be expected to grow steadily louder.

The stakes are high. If either party could sweep the 16-state farm vote, as the Republicans did in 1952, it would latch onto a prize package of 170 electoral votes—roughly two-thirds of the 266 total needed to capture the presidential election.

That's why Democratic leaders are pounding away on the theme that if their party wins the White House, it will give the farmer a better shake than he has been getting under the GOP administration of President Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson.

Republican bigwigs, in turn, are saying that the farmer's troubles began in the Truman administration, and they are promising that legislation to give farm income a boost will be ready when Congress returns to Washington in January.

Although traditionally regarded as Republican, as the accompanying maps show the farm vote in the three elections before 1952 turned out to be a catch-as-catch-can affair, with the Republicans twice getting the short end of the stick.

In the 1940 election, when the late Franklin D. Roosevelt won his third term against Republican Wendell L. Willkie, the Democrats snatched a margin of 104 to 74 electoral votes in the farm area.

In 1944, when Roosevelt beat Republican Thomas E. Dewey, the Republicans squeezed out a narrow farm-vote victory, 91 to 81.

And in 1948, when Harry S. Truman again scuttled Dewey's presidential ambitions, the Democrats ran away with the farm vote, 118 to 54.

LANDSLIDE
Eisenhower's landslide in 1952 bagged the farm belt's 170 electoral votes, but GOP leaders today privately concede they are in for a whale of a fight to come even close to repeating that performance.

Moreover, they gloomily acknowledge that Eisenhower's heart attack has put a heavy damper on their hopes of swinging a clean-cut farm victory in the Midwest.

Squeezed by falling farm income and the rising cost-of-living, farmers generally have tended to direct their fire at Secretary Benson rather than at Eisenhower personally.

Now, with Eisenhower perhaps deterred from running for re-election because of his health, many farmers who were swayed by Ike's personal popularity may decide that Democratic promises sound better.

"Even before the President's heart attack, Democratic chances were looking much higher all through the farm belt," said Kenneth Harding, assistant to Chairman Michael J. Kirwan of the House Democratic Campaign Committee.

BENSON HIT
Democratic blasts at Secretary Benson have centered on the contention that while the rest of the economy is booming, nothing has been done to ease the pinch on farmers whose income has dropped steadily in recent years. Farm prices have sagged 15 per cent since early 1953.

Sen. Kerr (D.-Okla.) says Benson is "still playing hop, skip and jump with the welfare of the American farmer" and is "trying to hypnotize the farmers into thinking they're well off."

The even-tempered Benson says he isn't happy about farm prices, either, and will have some "very specific" legislation proposals to lay before Congress early next year in an effort to help the nation's six million farmers.

Benson insists, however, that American agriculture is "basically sound, despite the claims of the prophets of gloom and doom."

"I think we are going to see some improvement in farm prices as we get a better balance between consumption and production in this country," the secretary said recently.

Sen. Kerr has called openly for Benson's ouster, but Sen. Mike Mansfield (D.-Mont.) chuckled softly when asked if he favored such action.

"Benson," said the Montana senator, "is the biggest single asset the Democrats have for the 1956 election campaign."

WINCH CHARGES PRISON OFFICIALS: 'Couldn't Break Man Physically, Trying to Break Him Mentally'

Kingston Penitentiary officials are attempting to break the mind of a prisoner who has spent the past 15 months locked in the "hole," CCF MP Harold Winch, Vancouver-East, charged Wednesday at a public meeting in Douglas CCF Hall.

"This is the same man who had 65 lashings," said Mr. Winch. "They couldn't break him physically, so now they are trying to break him mentally."

The younger of the famous father and son team of Winches is a member of the joint Senate-Commons committee on capital and corporal punishment and lotteries.

He said he discovered the plight of the unidentified Kingston prisoner during a tour through the Ontario "pen." The prisoner is serving time for armed robbery.

Mr. Winch said that when he finally reached the prisoner, "he couldn't speak for five minutes. He was gone."

"I've seen him myself—it's right here in Canada," he exclaimed.

The Vancouver-East member described the "hole," as being "right in the heart of the prison."

About four and one-half feet across, ten or ten and one-half feet long.

"It has a concrete floor, and concrete wall on three sides. There is no bed, just a mattress on the floor, no window, and in one corner a toilet bowl, and right next to it a washbasin."

"It has a steel door, and in front of that, a black iron door, with a little hole the guard can lift open and see through," he said.

"You can't see anybody, you can't talk to anybody. And you are allowed out for one-half an hour each day, at noon, to exercise your legs."

"How long could you stand it?" he asked the audience. "I've talked to a man who has been in there for the past 15 months, and he's still in there."

"He doesn't know when he's going to get out, or if he is ever going to get out," said Mr. Winch.

Later, he told a reporter the prisoner is being kept in solitary because he tried to escape, by hiding under a Coca-Cola truck.

Mr. Winch said "we need a new approach to penology. If a person breaks the law, he has to pay for it," but he said the lash and the paddle, and other instruments of punishment in use in Canada are not stopping criminals from continuing a life of crime.

He said that the Senate-Commons committee had found in interviews with men who had had the paddle and lash, that only one "said it did any good."

Mr. Winch said "animals will fight back, and these men come out with the idea that I'm going to get even."

He said Canada is one of three countries left in the free world which use the paddle and lash. The others are Great Britain, where only a prison warden can order the lash or paddle, and then only with the signed consent of the cabinet; and South Africa, "the only country that lashes women—if they are black."

"I went into a pen and spoke to a man who is now 18. He has had 85 lashes or paddles. Another man had 165. It doesn't sound so much when you read it in the press, but let me tell you what the lash is," said Mr. Winch.

He said a prisoner is taken to a small room with a sloping wall. His feet and arms are strapped with iron to hold him still. "He is stripped to the waist, with a leather belt over the kidneys, so they won't kill him. If it hit the kidneys, he would die."

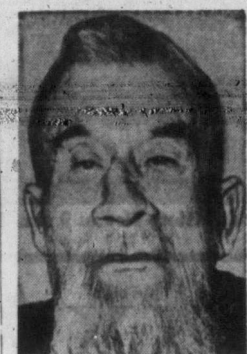

He described the lash as a handle with nine nylon cords attached. "Every five strokes they have to stop to check the man. A doctor is standing right beside him. If he can't take any more, they take him to hospital, and when he is well and strong again, they bring him back."

Mr. Winch said the paddle is made of leather, "about three-sixteenths of an inch thick, with holes in it. They use the same room, only they strap a man to a flat table. They take his pants down, and where the holes are the flesh will break through," he said.

"We still do that in Canada," said Mr. Winch. He said "to be fair, I must say it is being practiced to a decreasing extent."

In Oakalla, the provincial jail in Burnaby, "the majority of those who had the lash and paddle came back. So it is not a detriment to crime," he stated.

"And if it is not a detriment to crime, why do we brutalize ourselves?" he asked.

ROBBED OF $33,000 — While the owner was asleep, four masked men robbed Charles H. Doidge, 96, of Sutton, Ont., of $33,000 in bonds. They were locked in the family safe, which they forced Mrs. Charles Crowder, Mr. Doidge's daughter, to open. They then walked out of the home, leaving her bound and gagged in a chair.

13 Island Firms Top Saving Bond Objective

Thirteen out of 48 Vancouver Island firms buying series 10 of Canada savings bonds through payroll have already topped last year's final figures at the midway mark of the campaign.

Although the overall picture in Canada shows combined sales ($192,000,000) as being down 20 per cent, payroll sales are up slightly.

Publicly-Owned Civic Auditorium Suggested

TLC Delegates Criticize Proposal To Solicit Private Capital

Public ownership of a civic auditorium will be urged by Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council delegates at Wednesday night.

Victoria city council will be asked by the labor council to explore all possibilities for a civic auditorium and administer it was met with criticism on grounds that this would depart from Trades and Labor Congress public ownership policy.

"Who's going to pay for it?" demanded Mr. Aubrey, predicting a rise in the mill rate if the city were to proceed with construction of a civic auditorium.

Less strain on the taxpayer would result if the auditorium were built out of private capital, without subsidy, and operated on a "money-making basis," the delegate said.

Electricians' delegate John Driscoll said it was a "scandal" that a delegate propose violation of TLC policy of public ownership.

"Who's to blame for maladministration? The citizens who don't bother to vote," he said.

"It behooves us to boost the intelligence of our membership and the general public," he added.

Council secretary Percy Raymond proposed amendment to the motion asking council to explore civic auditorium possibilities by recommending the subject be left in the hands of a citizens' committee now exploring the matter. His amendment was defeated.

The secretary mentioned possibility of a provincial government grant towards construction of an auditorium; the money probably to come from the capital city improvement grant.

Pensioner's Passport Woes Keep Him Here

A New Zealand war pensioner is in Victoria today with wife and son because of what he terms passport trouble.

John R. Oliver, 53, 2591 Cook, says he's been fighting without success for 2½ months to get his passport okayed by U.S. immigration authorities.

His fare back to N.Z. is already paid, he said, but without immigration clearance steamship lines won't give him a ticket. Passports of his wife and son are in order.

Mr. Oliver had operated a taxi business in Lower Hutt, N.Z., for 20 years before going to Seattle in February to visit his sister. The family stayed there five months on their six month visas, he said. The family then came here when forced to leave the U.S. when visas ran out.

"Nobody seems to know what the passport trouble is," said Mr. Oliver. "I've been everywhere to try and find out. It shouldn't stop me from going home, any more than it stopped me from coming to the U.S. in the first place."

He quoted the U.S. consul in Vancouver as saying "the passport is wrong, and nothing can be done about it."

Said a frustrated Mr. Oliver: "How would I know whether the passport was in order or not. I didn't make it out."

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

Just wondering around...

Wonder if the Town Planning Commission shouldn't have a theme song... such as "there's no place like zone"... if the zoning by-law will ever replace the council argument... and if the citizens of Victoria will ever agree about anything, anytime, anywhere...

Wonder why it is the only place in town without water in it this morning was the toy yacht pool at Holland Point... wonder who will throw out the first yacht at the official opening... wonder who'll be the first toddler to fall in and the first doggie to dive in...

Wonder if the supporters of an aquarium for Victoria aren't missing a bet... they should get up a petition to take over the arena... it's wet enough... wonder if it might not be an even better idea to plant the arena floor with rice and get a little extra revenue from it...

Wonder who put Johnny-on-the-spot... wonder if it's true what they say about Dixie when she's in her cups... Dixie cups, that is... wonder why I started this...

Wonder if you've heard about the secretary who answered the phone and said "no, the boss isn't in, he has flu..." and the caller said "where did he fly to?"... wonder if you wouldn't rather not have heard about it...

Wonder how long it will be before the agitation for a ban on fireworks dies down... again... as it always has in past years... wonder how much damage will have to be done before such a ban is put into effect... wonder why kids couldn't have just as much fun in Halloween without endangering life and limb... wonder why some grown-ups can't act like grown-ups...

Wonder how rich the commissionaires would be if the commissionaires received commissions... on parking fines, that is...

Wonder if you wouldn't mind if I packed this up... I have to go shopping... for water wings.

Construction of a $250,000 Royal Bank of Canada branch at Douglas and Pandora will start within a few days, a bank spokesman said today in releasing award of the building contract to Farmer Construction Ltd.

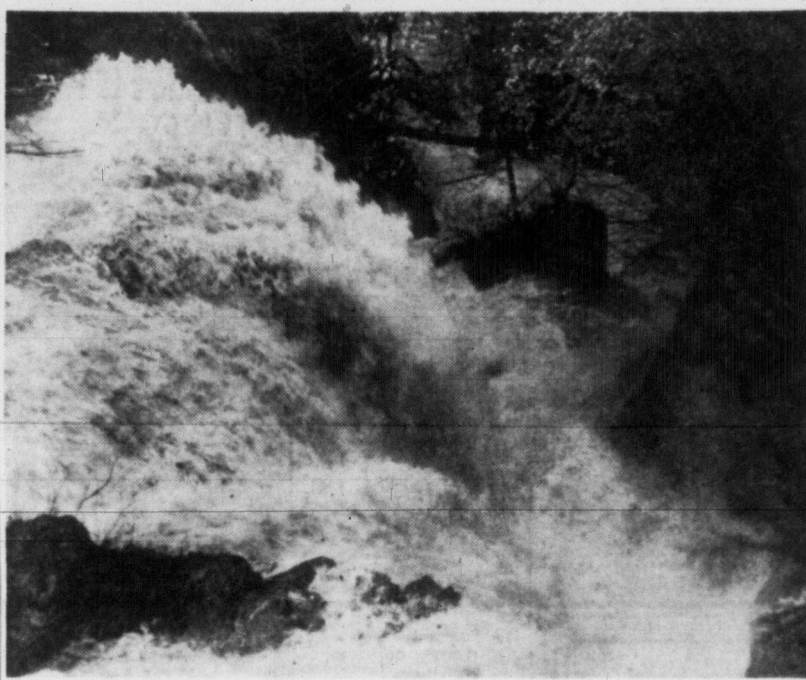

Total cost of the new bank, going up on a site vacated less than a month ago by demolition of the former B.C. Electric building, is expected to be in the neighborhood of $350,000 including furnishings.

Supervising architect for the job is John Wade, of the Victoria firm, Wade, Stockhill & Armour.

THIS WAS A TYPICAL SCENE in hundreds of homes in Victoria this morning as many home owners wakened to find their basements flooded after a record rainfall in the

Ramsay Seeks Free Parking Wednesdays

A campaign for free parking in metered spaces on Wednesday afternoons was announced today by city alderman candidate Hugh Ramsay.

"There is no one checking the meters during that time anyway," he stated.

Mr. Ramsay said he had been informed that Victoria's meter patrol of five commissionaires received Wednesday afternoons off in a body.

At the same time deputy chief Harry Mercer stated police do absolutely no meter checking since the commissionaires took over early in July.

Under the present system, responsible motorists have continued to put pennies and nickels in the meters... but hundreds of others have become aware of the situation and do not pay the meters at all on Wednesday afternoons.

"This is not a good situation where the good citizen pays and the dishonest one does not," said Mr. Ramsay.

"In view of the recently announced 200 per cent increase in fines in the last two months and the 500 new meters which were recently installed, it's time the motorist got a break."

"Whether I am elected or not, I am going to ask that the city shut down all meters on Wednesday afternoons."

He pointed out that the meters were installed to keep traffic moving and aid in parking. He said due to store closure, parking spaces are open in all sections of the downtown area during those hours and the meters were not necessary for the purpose they were installed to achieve.

RED FEATHER AT 81 PER CENT

The Greater Victoria Community Chest today broke the 80 per cent mark in the drive for $210,000.

At noon today returns stood at $170,184.84—81 per cent of the goal.

Last year at the same time drive funds were $174,609.12, but Chest officials are confident that this year's collections will pull ahead within a few days.

Bad Cheques Bring Woman 6 Months Jail

Six-month jail term was imposed in city police court today on Marion Eita Leslie, 24, of Ontario, on four false pretences charges involving $693.70 in four worthless cheques.

In imposing sentence Magistrate Henry C. Hall said: "It is clear you came to the city with the intention of obtaining these things by false pretences and leaving the city quickly."

He termed the Rockwood, Ont., woman's actions deliberate. She had pleaded guilty to all four charges.

The woman was arrested in a downtown department store after a woman bank teller pointed her out to a store detective.

The charges involved $175.95 worth of goods obtained from The T. Eaton Co. of Canada Ltd., 1150 Douglas; $207.75 goods from the Hudson's Bay Co., 1701 Douglas; and $310 cash from a branch of the Bank of Toronto.

She cashed two cheques at the bank, one for $160 and the other $150.

Police said she purchased dresses, suits, dressing gowns and hats at the department stores.

All the goods and cash were recovered.

Residents Flee $3,000 Blaze On Burnside

Damage was estimated at from $2,500 to $3,000 in a fire which razed store rooms of Domestic Sales, 28 Burnside West, late Wednesday afternoon.

Three persons fled from an upstairs apartment of the premises after they noticed heavy smoke filtering through the floor.

Saanich firemen, first on the scene, said smoke was so intense several of them became ill.

They raced to the scene after the fire was reported at 5:04 p.m. and called for aid from the city when it appeared the blaze might get out of control.

One truck from the Burnside station attended to bolster the Saanich department.

Saanich Chief Joseph Law said damage was extensive to a store room in the rear of the premises.

CAUSE UNKNOWN

He said at one time it was feared the fire might rage out of control and spread to a nearby drug store and hairdressing shop.

Sidney Starkey, owner of the block, said he was working at about 4:30 p.m. and saw no sign of a fire.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Boyce and a daughter fled their upstairs apartment.

Mr. Boyce said he had just come home from work when he opened some cupboard doors and saw smoke pouring through the floors.

Life Saving Awards To Nine Islanders

Thorough Probe Due On Saanich Sewage Costs

Voters Promised Full Accounts

A thorough investigation into the cost of completing the $2,500,000 Saanich sewage project was ordered today in the face of reports it may face a deficit.

The investigation follows a Saanich sewage committee order, halting all work during the winter.

About 80 workmen employed on the project were laid off as the result of the committee's decision.

A deficit would mean Saanich would have to float another loan to complete the project.

Reeve Joseph Casey said the investigation into the finances of the sewage project should be completed within a month.

"We don't know exactly where we stand now," he said. "That is why a survey is being made. We are certainly running close to the line."

Clr. Leslie Passmore said a full account of the sewage project's finances would be made public.

"We are not trying to hide anything," he said. "I'm going to see that the whole financial picture is presented to the public before the election."

Divine Healing Anglican Priest On Mission Here

Divine healing "has come to stay, prejudices stood in the way but are fast disappearing," he said.

So says Rev. John Maillard, warden of the Healing Life Mission, Okehampton, England, and editor of Healing Life magazine who conducts a healing mission at St. John's Church here Nov. 13 to 16.

Science and religion, said Mr. Maillard, are partners. Doctors now think of illness in terms of human personality.

"Man is a threefold being," he said in an advance message, "body, mind and spirit. The mind influences the body for good or ill; the spirit affects both mind and body."

Mr. Maillard was founder and warden of Milton Abbey Healing Sanctuary in England, largest residential centre of its kind in the world. Here doctors and clergy worked together in friendly association, the doctors applying the therapeutic resources of science and the clergy administering healing virtues of religion.

"Healing is not our religion, but it takes the whole of our religion to make the healing effective," he said.

The Anglican priest encourages attendance by those with nervous or mental stresses, and those with personal problems.

He said also: "It would be a mistake to stay away on the supposition that faith may be less than the standard required. We cannot know to what heights faith is able to rise."

An invitation is extended doctors, nurses, physiotherapists, social workers, teachers and all others to attend.

Feature of the mission will be a question and answer period. Those with questions are asked to write them out at the beginning of the session.

Mr. Maillard will preach at St. John's at 9:30 and 11 a.m., Nov. 13, and will conduct healing services that evening at 7:30. Healing services will be at 2:30 and 8 p.m. Monday and Tuesday, and at 2:30 p.m., Wednesday.

Secret Strike Deadline Set By Mill Men

Shop stewards representing 171 coast lumber mill operating engineers set a strike deadline at a meeting in Vancouver Wednesday night, but are keeping it secret for the present, Victoria local 918 business agent Ed Callan said today.

The AFL operating engineers rejected a conciliation board award offering a five cents an hour wage hike this year and next, and have been unable to settle negotiations with 22 lumber and shingle mills.

Sixteen mills, employing about 10,000 International Woodworkers of America (IOWA) members, voted to strike in support of demands.

Humane Association Honors Three in City

Nine Vancouver Islanders, three of them Victorians, have been honored by the Royal Canadian Humane Association for their parts in saving lives during the past year.

British Columbians comprise half the 35 Canadians to receive parchment certificates as citations for heroism.

Victorians are eight-year-old John Charles, son of Royal Roads Canadian Services College commandant Capt. John A. Charles; John G. Quinn, truck driver, of 944 Dunsmuir, and William van Munster, bus driver, of 1235 Crown Crescent.

They will be awarded parchment certificates by the association, as will the other six Islanders. A North Vancouver boy, Allan Campbell, 12, will be given the association's bronze medal for keeping a companion afloat after a boating mishap.

He will be the only British Columbian to receive a medal.

John Charles, a pupil at Glenlyon School, was playing with several friends in the service college Japanese Gardens Jan. 30, when eight-year-old Cynthia Smith, daughter of Dr. H. D. Smith, Royal Roads, fell from her bicycle into a lily pond.

John rushed to her aid using a piece of thick pampas grass to bring her to safety at the edge of the seven-foot deep pond.

Mrs. Charles, surprised that the Humane Association should recognize the deed, said the boy had merely "used his head instead of jumping in." It was John's eighth birthday the following day.

Quinn and van Munster were both at Beaver Lake August 14 when 13-year-old Keith Shepherd jumped off a diving float into water beyond his depth.

Quinn, 28, swam to the boy and pulled him back to the float, and meanwhile van Munster arrived and took over artificial respiration. The boy recovered before his mother, farther down the beach, was aware he had nearly drowned.

A Nanaimo nurse at the Indian Hospital, Miss Phyllis M. Hamilton, pulled Mrs. S. Arthur White from a burning car near Langford following an accident Sept. 14.

Another Nanaimo citizen, 12-year-old Colin Cameron, 445 Dunsmuir, saved a 1½-year-old child, Kirk McLeod, from being run over by a car April 9.

Parchments go to R. Stanton and Robert McFarlane, Nuchalitz, on Esperanza Inlet, for heroic action in their attempt to rescue Gunnar Markvardson who drowned at Nuchalitz April 12.

Mr. and Mrs. Albin Michael, Nuchalitz, for rescuing Stanton and McFarlane from drowning in the same incident, will also receive certificates.

Other awards to B.C. are to John Luca, Vancouver, for attempting to rescue Otto Washuber from a rock slide at Pioneer Gold Mines, Sept. 27, 1954.

Rev. Samuel Kingley, 63, Kitkatia, B.C., and Nathan Shaw, Caspaco, for the rescue from drowning May 25 of Matthew Vickers, at Kitkatia.

Mrs. Rosa Amyot and F. L. Gable, Vancouver, for rescuing several persons, including two children, from their burning home in Vancouver May 1.

G. H. Potts, Merry Island, for rescuing Ernest Marshall, Curry W. Wood and Herbert Barnes from drowning near Campbell River Jan. 22.

Toschi Uchiyama, 15, Nakusp.

Mayor Pleased With B.C. Move To Get Plateau

Mayor Claude Harrison, who led one of the original hiking parties into the Forbidden Plateau area some 25 years ago, today praised government action in setting out to acquire the area from the CPR.

"I'm delighted the government has taken this stand on Forbidden Plateau," he said.

"There is no place where you can find so much of interest in such a small area. I took a party of mountaineers in there 25 years ago. It is one of the most beautiful things you ever saw."

"It wants no upkeep... just a road in. There are miles of heather and beautiful flowers. Mr. Bennett is doing a darn good job... building a western empire."

ASK The TIMES

Q.—What weight of concrete was built into the new yacht pool at Holland Point? N.D.T.

A.—Records in the city engineer's office show the total was 367 cubic yards. The weight of the material was in the order of 100 pounds to the cubic foot. Thus the total weight of the concrete is computed at approximately 485,45 tons.

Q.—How long has Victoria had ocean wharves? R.L.M.

A.—R. E. Gosnell in his historic work on B.C. recorded that construction of the Rithet wharves, the pile piers so long known to Victorians, was started April 3, 1890.

It's Appealing and Useful—
This Wooden Pretzel Pup

By PENNY SAVER

The daschund has been given a new look. And its name has been changed, too. Oh, they're still long and low, but the particular ones I saw are called "pretzel pups," and they're a bright red. What are they? Why, serving items, of course. This pup has a long, wooden body, covered with holes just the right size for toothpicks. Pickles, onions, olives and bits of cheese may be arranged along the length, while the tail is a straight wooden rod, sticking straight up. Pretzels are piled on, and are easily removed when refreshment time rolls around. This wee pup has a most winsome and appealing expression and appearance, and will win the hearts of your guests. He'd be a welcomed gift for your friends who enjoy entertaining, too. He's not expensive, just $1.

A sportsman in the family? If he enjoys hunting he'll especially appreciate the cleverly styled cuff-links being made by a well-known manufacturer. These cuff-links have the solid, hinged shaft, and the stud end is made to resemble two black shotgun shells. There are rifles, too, with pearl butt ends, that may be matched with tie clips. Cuff-links are priced at $3, while clips are about the same price.

Wonderfully vibrant colors have appeared in men's sweaters. They, too, can choose from almost any color they please. Come and take a look at the color chart. Besides black and white, there are 32 colors to choose from. These lambs wool sweaters are hand-knitted, yet soft and warm. With the suddenly-cold days, a good stock of sweaters is a necessity. Always a good thing to look for when buying a sweater is its recommendation for washing. Of course, you'll want ones that may be hand-washed. And these are. They're shrinkproof, moth-proof and completely washable. Men's sweaters are $8.95. For $6.95, the girls may buy lambs-wool sweaters in any one of the 32 matching colors. An idea for a Christmas gift? Matched sweaters for a fella and his girl are welcomed and thoughtful gifts.

Have you seen the lid flipper? They're 10-cent openers for prying off capped glass food containers. Small enough to hide in your fist, the opener is scientifically designed to convert simple wrist movement into leverage for lifting the caps. Caps removed by this method can be used to reseal containers airtight and preserve freshness, flavor, vitamin content and color of food. To open containers with a small "ledge" or "shoulder" at the top, like cat-soup, pickles and baby foods, insert the flat point at the centre of the opener between the ledge and cap and then simply twist in several places around the cap, as if turning a key. A hook on the back of the lid flipper removes pry-off caps from tumbler type containers. The hook lifts the caps without bending or twisting, leaving them ready for reuse.

AS WE LIVE

Consult Your Doctor
Concerning Frigidity

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

Fear of sex, which often leads to frigidity in women, needs professional treatment. It should be taken seriously as it is the basis of many unhappy marriages and divorces.

(Q)—"I am a woman of 50, the mother of one daughter and two grandchildren whom my husband and I both adore. However, all my life I have had a fear and resentment of life itself, primarily of sex. My dear, patient husband has been cheated out of a normal married life. He knows how I shrink from him and yet I sincerely love him. I have had several nervous breakdowns and am constantly in a terrible mental conflict. By prayer, I have been 'released' for a time but my mind sooner or later sinks into the old rut. Now I have had change of life and I wonder if this will make me even worse than before. Lately I have felt a certain coolness on my husband's part and this worries me, though I really don't blame him for feeling as he does. What would you advise me to do?"—Mrs. J. R.

(A)—I would advise you to consult your doctor at once about this matter and, if he recommends that you see a psychiatrist, do so. You need professional help to overcome the unfavorable attitudes you now have.

The menopause, or change of life, usually has just the opposite effect on women than one would expect. You cannot, therefore, blame any coolness or frigidity you experience on the fact that your body has changed and you are no longer able to produce children.

Your husband may have been patient with you throughout the years of your marriage, but you, yourself, realize that you have not been fair to him. Furthermore, there is no guarantee that he will continue to be as patient and understanding as he has in the past.

Now that your daughter is married and one of his major responsibilities has ended, he may decide that he wants to have some "fun" out of life before he is too old to enjoy himself. That may be back of his recent coolness. You should regard it as a danger signal.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Proper Care of Teeth
Vital to Looks, Health

Most men and women who pretend to good grooming brush their teeth going to sleep at night. This is certainly a lot better than no brushing but from the standpoint of good looks and health it falls far short of ideal care.

Actually, teeth are much more attractive when brushed three times a day. This also is important for tooth preservation. Research indicates that the greatest damage is done within the first half-hour after eating. Whenever possible we should brush our teeth immediately following each meal.

Few persons take their toothbrush to work with them, although this is completely practical. The office or factory worker, the school teacher, the nurse, practically everyone, could do this.

A recent survey by the American Dental Association showed that only 29 per cent of Americans brush their teeth after each meal. Another survey by the American Dental Association showed that only one person out of three visits his dentist as often as once a year.

If you wish to save yourself loss of teeth and pain and expense in the future, twice a year should be the minimum. If you have poor teeth three or four times is good preventive medicine.

At these times your teeth are cleaned professionally, X-rays are taken and any necessary repair or correction is planned.

for. In this way small decays are discovered before they turn into large ones.

Dental floss is another aid which many folks forget. Figures suggest that only about 5 per cent of the population use it. Dental floss goes between the teeth where the brush does not reach and where food particles accumulate, ferment and form acids which erode tooth enamel.

Another thing to remember is that teeth can affect your bite and even your facial contour. Many women fail to have them replaced if the space does not show. This is a mistake.

Considering that we only have one set of teeth after maturity it seems a shame to neglect them. A little preventive medicine goes a long way toward saving our teeth for the length of our lives.

Vows in HMCS Naden Chapel

While Mrs. Fred Venaugh played traditional wedding music, Miss Ann Laverne (Randy) Wafner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Warner, White Rock, B.C., entered HMC Naden Chapel to become the bride of AB William A. Savage, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Savage, Brampton, Ont. Padre H. Todd performed the afternoon ceremony in the chapel where fall flowers formed the background.

Given in marriage by Const. Fred Clunk, the bride chose a bridal gown of pink and silver brocade, fashioned with a full ballerina-length skirt, a cross-over V-neckline and short sleeves. She wore a headress of white carnations and carried a spray of pink and white carnations.

Matron of honor, Mrs. T. J. Spooner, chose a coral brocade dress similarly styled, with a white and yellow carnations colonial bouquet and a yellow carnation headress.

AB Art Simpson was best man, while AB Fred Venaugh ushered guests to pews.

Pink and white streamers and bells decorated Glenshiel Lodge for a reception which followed. Pink and white flowers were on the bride's table, where a two-tier wedding cake decorated with roses was centred. Const. Clunk proposed the toast to the bride.

Leaving for their honeymoon, the bride wore a pale blue suit with navy accessories. Her corsage was of red roses. Mr. and Mrs. Savage have made their home on Quadra Street following a honeymoon in Vancouver.

Times With Leo

TIMES TO CARRY FULL WEEK'S PROGRAMMING SATURDAYS

BEGINNING this coming Saturday the Times will give a new service to the TV audience by carrying the complete listings for the week.

In a special page, which may be lifted from the paper and placed beside your TV set, will be the programs beginning Saturday afternoon and carrying through the week.

The format will be different than the daily listings and will appear on Saturdays only. The usual daily schedules will continue on other days of the week.

This change has been instituted as a result of surveys taken during the summer and the requests of Times readers for an "easy to read" program for the full week.

ATTENTION WRITERS!—The CBC has just produced a booklet called "Writing for CBC Radio and Television," an encouragement for Canadian writers.

The booklet lists the various programs, currently using original plays, a variety of subjects covered by the programs and the fees being paid.

It is interesting to note that the rates have been increased over those offered last year. A radio script now brings in from $125 to $600 while a TV script may earn the author anywhere from $200 to $1,000. For special features longer than an hour fees will range up to $1,250.

This is good news indeed.

Small, Appreciative Crowd Hears Quartet

Amadeus Group's Program Both Traditional and Controversial

By AUDREY S.T.D. JOHNSON

An inch or so more rain than is normal of a November evening may have been responsible for keeping some avowed music lovers away from Wednesday night's concert by the Amadeus Quartet; but if the evening had evoked nothing else, the slow movement of the Schubert D minor alone would have been worth a long journey through raging torrents.

As it was, however, for those who did attend it was a concert that provided many rich rewards, both of a controversial and traditional nature. The event was a presentation of the Art Gallery and Victoria Symphony Society women's committee.

For their program the ensemble chose to present strong contrasts of style and concept by the sandwiching of the passionately atonal Bartok No. 4 between the lucid perfection of Mozart's B flat major and the effulgent lyricism of Schubert.

Physically speaking, the style of the Amadeus Quartet is less restrained and more colorful than that of the Paganini, the last major chamber ensemble to be heard in Victoria. The effect of the Amadeus group's performance is dynamic, intense and dedicated.

One receives the impression that the audience is forgotten and that the musicians are completely absorbed in playing the sheer delight of recreating a musical experience.

Their range of dynamics is quite startling and they display an equal brilliance in their use of a variety of textures. The satin-smooth tone can become deliberately coarse when required, as in the Bartok, or filmed over with an eerie patina—again as in the Bartok.

The virtuosity of the group goes far beyond a mere cataloguing of technical virtues. Their performance of the often ferociously difficult Bartok can be taken as a criterion in itself.

Some thoroughly delightful Mozart, abounding in the youthful bubbling good spirits of the period of the "Haydn" quartets, was the first presentation on the program.

Pure tonal beauty and a rich cantabile, marked the poignantly expressed Schubert, the slow movement of which, based on the composer's lullaby, "Death and the Maiden," gives it its subtitle. With what perfection, yet with what natural ease, each note, each phrase was uttered.

Responding to a warm ovation, a movement of Schubert's A minor quartet was played as an encore.

TWO for the SHOW

By PHIL LEE

EA (Color Class) A (Don't Miss)

(A) "AIDA" (Royal): Lovers of grand opera cannot help but enjoy, even marvel, at this opulent Italian production of Giuseppe Verdi's "Aida." For of all the offerings from Rome this is the most spectacular and most lavish.

Filmed in Ferranicolor, a process that highlights the colors of dress and garden yet makes pastoral scenes breathe with life, with grandiose sets and choruses that would do credit to a Cecil B. deMille "colossal," "Aida" is obviously a film slanted for American dollars (or British sterling) for each scene is explained in neat, concise English before it is enacted, so that there can be no confusion to the operatic tyro as to what it is all about.

Much as in the unforgettable "Carmen Jones" the principals do not sing, only act. So as to make no mistake director Clemente Fracassi has used some of the most renowned voices in Italy, Renata Tebaldi, Ebe Stignani and Giuseppe Campora with supporting voices from the Rome Opera and La Scala.

PLAYING AIDA IS SOPHIA LOREN, a captured princess of Ethiopia who has become a slave of ancient Egypt's princess, Canaan-born Lois Maxwell.

After viewing the two girls it is no wonder that warrior Radames, played by Luciano Della Marra, who looks something like a cross between Marlon Brando and Englishman Jack Hawkins, attempts to sell out his country for the affections of Aida. To put it mildly, she is exotic.

Unlike in "Carmen Jones," however, wherein Dorothy Dandridge and Harry Belafonte made one actually believe they were signing because of the tension of their vocal cords and facial movements, the principals of "Aida" left no such impression.

Nonetheless, this does not spoil the overall effect because the "dubbing in" was neatly executed and no doubt most theatre-goers would leave "Aida" firmly convinced that Miss Loren, Miss Maxwell and Luciano were actually singing.

AS WE HAVE REMARKED before, when the motion pictures produce such fine works as "Aida" they are accomplishing much. Although "canned" opera loses something in the canning it also gives something which staged opera cannot do. It can, for instance, supply great battle scenes, scenes of the countryside, of galloping troops, of combat in a manner that could never be carried out on a stage because of a stage's obvious limitations.

What is more, the motion picture industry can supply the top artists of the world at all prices which most can afford.

All of which is a feather in the cap of the industry. In the case of "Aida" the bow must be directed towards Italy.

Cleric, 88, Admits Taking Bribe, Telling Lies to Clear Gangster

By PHIL LEE

LEWIS, Ontario (AP)—An 88-year-old retired Church of England parson told a court Wednesday he was bribed "to tell all the lies I could possibly manufacture" to clear a gang leader of charges of knifing a rival.

"It was all lies," Rev. Basil Andrews shouted from the witness box. "I am thoroughly ashamed."

Andrews was testifying for the crown against the wife of Jack (Spot) Comer, Mrs. Rita Comer, and three other persons charged

JAZZ ORCHESTRA PLAYS TONIGHT

A drum concerto written and played by Wally Grieve will feature the first concert of the newly-formed 10-piece Victoria Chamber Jazz Orchestra in the Art Gallery tonight at 8:15. Orchestra leader will be Gordon King.

The prosecution alleged that a gambler approached Andrews, hard-up and harassed with gambling debts, and offered him £25 to say "six words" at Comer's trial.

The prosecution charged that Andrews then saw Mrs. Comer, who promised him £50 to say at the trial that Dimes attacked Comer and that he had seen Dimes with a knife.

Bonner Confers With Tupper On Police Probe

A three-way meeting on the royal commission inquiring into charges of laxity and corruption in the Vancouver police force was held in Victoria Wednesday.

Attending were Attorney-General Robert Bonner, Commissioner R. H. Tupper, Q.C. and RCMP Assistant-Commissioner C. E. Rivett-Carnac.

Mr. Bonner and Mr. Tupper refused comment following the meeting.

There are reports they heard evidence collected by a team of RCMP investigators, on possible criminal aspects arising out of the Tupper inquiry.

Trail, Rossland Workers Earn Highest Annual Average Income

OTTAWA (CP)—Trail and Rossland, B.C., retained the top spot in 1953 as the cities with the highest average income—$3,853—according to a 145-page revenue department tax analysis called the "green paper" issued Wednesday.

The two cities also were first in 1952 with $3,789.

Trail and Rossland figure is based principally on the wages paid to the 6,000 employees of the Cominco smelter, which has for many years been recognized as one of highest-wage industries in Canada.

Medical doctors and surgeons replaced consulting engineers and architects as the country's top money earners and taxpayers.

Nurses remained at the bottom of the heap, earning an average income $1,357, lower than that of Canadians on pensions.

The average income of Canadians in 1953 rose to $3,383 from $3,288 the previous year.

The number of Canadian taxpayers earning less than $1,000 a year rose to 33,710; the number earning between $5,000 and $10,000 rose to 292,140, and those earning between $10,000 and $25,000 to 55,210.

But there were only 250 Canadians in the $100,000-a-year and over income bracket in 1953 compared with 330 the previous year.

Hiram Stevens Maxim invented the Maxim gun and his son, Hiram Percy Maxim, invented the silencer for guns.

MacMillan Opposes More Wood Licences

Present Policy 'on Brink of Precipice'
Where Island Logging Concerned

H. R. MacMillan, chairman of the board of B.C.'s biggest timber firm, MacMillan and Bloedel, believes that no further forest management licences should be granted in the Vancouver forest district which covers the big productive logging area of the lower B.C. coast including Vancouver Island.

Mr. MacMillan told Chief Justice Gordon Sloan that facts concerning the Vancouver district "show we are on the brink of the precipice, and should not advance another step, otherwise the plunge will be into trouble."

The one-time chief forester of B.C. made the submission in an 82-page brief presented before the Sloan royal commission on forestry, now sitting at the courthouse.

MAIN POINTS

In what he termed "drastic" recommendations, Mr. MacMillan urged:

1. That the sustained annual yield of forest crop be maintained and extended throughout the province.

2. That no more forest management licences be granted in the Vancouver forest district, which includes all of Vancouver Island.

3. That all Crown timber not in "temporary cutting tenures" be added "immediately" to public working circles.

4. That the boundaries of public working circles be subject to change only by the Legislature.

5. That public working circles be administered as separate units, with a forester in charge of each one.

6. Every feasible means should be employed to keep the market logger in business.

7. That "blackmail frequently

New Battle in Gaza Fires Holy Land War

WASHINGTON (UP)—The new outbreak of Israeli-Egyptian fighting is "very serious" and "getting worse," the state department said this afternoon.

JERUSALEM (CP)—More than 250 killed were claimed by both sides today as Israeli and Egyptian forces battled in the demilitarized frontier zone in the worst fighting between them since the end of the 1948 Palestine war.

At the United Nations headquarters in New York, representatives of Britain, the United States and France began a new and "urgent" round of consultations.

tions in an 11th-hour bid to forestall a full-scale war in the Holy Land.

The battle started Wednesday night when the Israelis seized a border checkpoint in the Gaza strip.

But a spokesman in Cairo said an Egyptian counter-attack recaptured the El Sabha post. He said 200 Israeli soldiers had been killed.

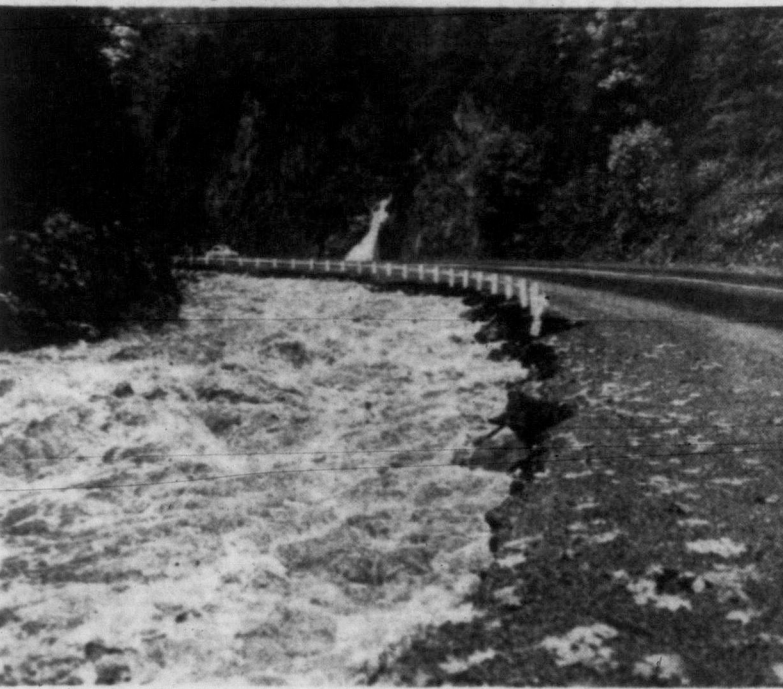

Egyptian general army headquarters has taken over command of the Egyptian troops in the area, previously controlled by the Egyptian Palestine department. Gen. Abdel Hakim Amer, Egyptian commander-in-chief, has gone to the front.

VENGEFUL FLOOD—Torrential rains that turned Arbutus creek on Malahat from a quiet rill to a flood ripped out 75 feet of Trans-Canada Highway early today, leaving only concrete retaining wall. Break forced all highway traffic north to travel via Mill Bay Ferry, and farther up hillside trouble on E & N Railway track forced suspension of up-island service for today. Provincial engineers estimate at least two days will be required to bridge gap in temporary fashion. Road on opposite side leads to Hall's boathouse. (Times photo by Strickland.)

GOLDSTREAM BOILS—Roaring waters of Goldstream today gnawed at banks directly below Trans-Canada Highway, threatened foundations of guard rails. Extensive highway improvements were completed this year, involved relocating bed of Goldstream in certain places. (Times photos by Irving Strickland.)

Mainlanders Forced From Homes; Crack Train Derailed; Roads Cut

VANCOUVER (CP)—Trans-continental trains were halted and residents fled their homes today in one of the worst rainstorms in British Columbia's rainy history. A record 24-hour fall of 2.4 inches was recorded at Sea Island airport.

A CPR train, the crack west-bound Dominion, was derailed by a rock and mud slide near Harrison Mills, 61 miles east of here.

Two rock slides and a mud slide cut CNR lines in the Yale subdivision which stretches from Vancouver to Boston Bar in the Fraser canyon.

The line's westbound Super Continental was running three hours late, but the Continental, train No. 3, was held at Stout, B.C. Its estimated time of arrival here was 10 p.m.—15 hours late.

The Hope-Princeton highway was cut about 100 miles east of here by slides and washouts. The Trans-Canada Highway was reported "extremely dangerous" in the Fraser canyon.

At Salmon Arm, in the Okanagan, a 24-hour snowfall of 7.7 inches was recorded and temperatures dropped to 18 degrees above zero during the night. No serious accidents were reported.

British United Press reported the Mosquito creek in North Vancouver turned into a boiling flood-tide. Two bridges over the creek were washed out and several families living adjacent to the creek had to be evacuated with their homes were flooded.

In New Westminster, Columbia and Water streets were covered with up to three feet of water on some blocks.

Heavy damage was reported throughout the luxury housing developments on Vancouver's west shore. Some residents left to stay with friends as furnaces were extinguished by climbing waters.

U.S. Helicopter Trying To Make Rescue Lift

Eleven persons marooned at Port Renfrew and in danger of drowning are the objects of an air-sea rescue attempt this afternoon.

They were endangered when the San Juan River flooded the community 50 miles from Victoria early today.

The Victoria tug, Island Challenger is standing by outside Port Renfrew to aid in the rescue if the stormy seas permit.

The U.S. Coast Guard has dispatched a helicopter from Port Angeles, Wash., in an attempt to rescue the trapped persons who would be "lost" if not rescued in a few hours.

The call for rescue said "we will be lost" if not saved before 3 p.m.

One of those endangered is a woman cripple in a wheelchair.

The San Juan River, which emp-ties into the Strait of Juan de Fuca, became a raging torrent which slammed into Port Renfrew and left residents along the river bank isolated with the water rising on all sides.

The Coast Guard plans to let down ladders from the helicopter to rescue the flood victims. A plane was flying over the area and radioing reports on the situation at Port Renfrew.

The Coast Guard diverted the helicopter from rescue operations in the U.S. Olympic peninsula to go to Port Renfrew. The operation was expected to be completed early this afternoon barring a sudden lowering of the cloud ceiling.

"If that happens, I don't know what we would do," an air-sea rescue spokesman said at Vancouver.

Malahat Washed Out By Heavy Downpour

MINOR STORM

More Rain Due Tonight

More rain was predicted today by weatherman William Mackie.

Another minor storm is heading for the Vancouver Island Coast, and will bring rain that will last until at least midnight.

"Friday will be cloudy with showers and lower temperatures," he said.

"We are right on the storm track," he said.

The weatherman was caught in his own rainstorm today.

"Our observatory roof is leaking like a sieve, and we're practically under water," he said.

"We have at least five buckets out trying to corral the leaks, and need more," he said.

The severe rains and autumn fall of leaves combined to make trouble in many Victoria basements.

Acting city engineer J. C. Garnett said that leaves had blocked several drains and crews were busy in many areas throughout the city repairing the situation.

He reported that the worst cases of basement flooding were reported from the Bowdler area on Yates Street and the Royal Olympic Hotel on Johnson Street.

In each case workmen were required to install heavy pumps which were borrowed from the city fire department.

All transportation to and from Victoria, with exception of train service, was running on schedule at noon.

The only service not available was the Esquimalt and Nanaimo train, which was cancelled before its scheduled departure at 11:30 a.m.

Bus transportation up-island was continuing despite a washout on the Malahat, which has stopped all traffic going that route for at least two days.

Vancouver Island Coach Lines Ltd. were rerouting their buses via the Brentwood-Mill Bay ferry.

TCA officials reported normal travel, with only one flight being cancelled up to noon.

Three B.C.E. buses stalled this morning due to flooding of distributors as the large vehicles plowed through ponds of water on city streets, but schedules are being maintained.

The over-all picture of the flooding of homes and streets in Saanich is not known yet, but police indicated at noon today that the water damage in some localities may be "extensive."

Police said they received numerous phone calls complaining of flooding.

Engineers reported flooding in the vicinity of Cumberland Road and Schran Drive, at the corner of Admirals Road and Rockwell, and in the vicinity of Haultain Street.

E & N Service Interrupted; Many City Basements Flooded

Transportation services and public utilities today were recovering from shattering blows inflicted here by an unprecedented 3.46 inches of rain in 24 hours. More rain is predicted for tonight.

Highlights of the rainstorm damage:

1. A huge fill at Arbutus creek on the Malahat, 15 miles from Victoria, washed out early this morning. Traffic will not be resumed for two days, according to government engineers.

2. More than 11 inches of rain in 24 hours at Jordan River overtaxed the huge capacity of the B.C. Electric storage dam spillway. Water rushing over the end of the dam washed out the flume serving the power house, and all Victoria's power now is coming from the B.C. Power Commission's John Hart plant at Campbell River, the Brentwood steam plant of the B.C. Electric, and the BCE Goldstream plant.

3. Sooke is cut off from Victoria. Dedwney flats one mile west of Glen Lake are under three feet of water, and two feet of water covers the road where Neal Creek, east of Sooke River, has overflowed its banks.

4. The Cowichan Lake community of Youbou, where B.C. Forest Products has a sawmill, was plunged into darkness early this morning. Huge logs 40 feet long and two feet in diameter, were swept down Coon Creek and through a transformer substation installed by the B.C. Power Commission a year ago.

Three families in the vicinity of the creek had to be moved to safety as the waters threatened their homes.

5. All Up-Island highway traffic is being carried on the Mill Bay ferry, which has announced it will maintain 24-hour service during the present emergency.

6. E & N Railway announced no trains would operate out of Victoria today. The same flood that ripped out 75 feet of the Malahat caused trouble on the track, and observers predicted flooding between Cobble Hill and Duncan.

7. Shawigan Lake is reported to have risen three feet in the last 24 hours.

Weatherman William Mackie said the rain was the heaviest ever recorded here. In following the official weather records system, which tabulates totals only for the 24 hours between 4:30 a.m. one day and 4:30 a.m. the following day, an all-time record rain for November was set of 2.65 inches for the 24-hour period.

ALL-TIME RECORD

"However, between 11 a.m. Wednesday and 10 a.m. today, 3.46 inches of rain have fallen here," he said. "The official record is 3.18 inches, set Feb. 16, 1949."

More rain is predicted for tonight.

The Malahat washout occurred early this morning.

Raging waters in the swollen creek could not be carried off by a culvert, swept over the fill, and finally carried it away. Although a concrete retaining wall marks the site of the fill, the concrete culvert pipe has vanished.

RCMP have erected warnings at the bridge north of Suicide corner.

Engineers expect the huge gap will not be bridged for at least two days.

Goldstream, a mild trickle all summer long, now is a seething torrent that has washed away part of the new highway fill just completed within the last year between Suicide corner and Goldstream park.

Families Marooned Near Port Alberni

NANAIMO (CP)—Record rainfall along the east coast of Vancouver Island have washed out sections of highways and cut the water supply at Youbou.

Weather observer Hiram Gough said the 2.7 inches of rain that fell here between 8:30 a.m. Wednesday and 8:30 a.m. today is believed to be a record for the city.

At Port Alberni 2.61 inches of rain were registered in 14 hours.

Roads between Port Alberni and Franklin River were washed out. MacMillan and Bloedel operations at Port Alberni and 30 miles southeast were suspended when two logging railway bridges collapsed. Fifty families and 200 loggers are practically marooned in one camp.

DUNCAN HIT

The low-lying Duncan area has also been hard hit by the heavy rains.

The old island highway at

Crofton Corners, about nine miles north of Duncan, has been cut by rising waters of the Chemainus river.

This is the highest point the Chemainus river has reached since the disastrous floods of 1951.

At Cowichan Bay, one boat was seriously damaged Wednesday afternoon when it was rammed by a drifting log. The boat was towed to shore before it sank.

Henry M. Jackson and his family on Cowichan Bay road, four miles from Duncan, were stranded in their home.

RCMP in Duncan said "the family can't get out."

Police report that the road from Duncan to Lake Cowichan is still in use but Youbou cannot be reached.

The Coon Creek bridge, between Lake Cowichan and Youbou was washed out during the night by high water. The bridge is located four miles from Lake Cowichan and is the only road into the mill town.

Army Aid Asked

30 Homes
Flooded
At Capilano

Reeve Grant Currie today appealed to the army for help in flood-ravaged North Vancouver.

Civil Defence has ordered the evacuation of the Lions Gate area of North Vancouver because of flooding.

About 70 homes are involved.

Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi and Deputy Public Works Minister Evan Jones left Victoria this afternoon to survey damage caused in North Vancouver by today's heavy rains.

Earlier Premier W. A. C. Bennett received a request from Reeve Currie to declare the North Vancouver municipal district a disaster area. Bennett said he was leaving action on the request up to Br. Gagliardi.

Reeve Currie said 500 men were needed to sandbag the raging Seymour River, which threatened scores of houses after more than 24 hours' continuous rain in southeastern B.C.

Flood damage is estimated at thousands of dollars.

Nanaimo Dam Threatened

Emergency measures were being taken this afternoon to avert possible breaking of Harewood reservoir No. 2 dam just below Nanaimo army camp.

According to Bud Newcomb, chief commissioner and engineer for the Greater Nanaimo Water Board, flood waters caused by recent rains, were running over the dam and the upper end of the structure was giving way to pressure of tons of water.

The dam covers between five and six acres and is situated on Chase River. Rod Glen, secretary treasurer of Harewood Improvement Association announced an emergency at 2 p.m.

Special crews are working to save the dam.

Should the dam go out, the water would cascade into No. 1 dam below, and this would result in flooding of Harewood which has 3,500 people in it, and Chase River, two miles below Nanaimo.

MINOR STORM

More Rain Due Tonight

More rain was predicted today by weatherman William Mackie.

Another minor storm is heading for the Vancouver Island Coast, and will bring rain that will last until at least midnight.

"Friday will be cloudy with showers and lower temperatures," he said.

"We are right on the storm track."

The weatherman was caught in his own rainstorm today. "Our observatory roof is leaking like a sieve, and we're practically under water," he said.

"We have at least five buckets out trying to corral the leaks, and need more," he said.

The severe rains and autumn fall of leaves combined to make trouble in many Victoria basements.

Acting city engineer J. C. Garnett said that leaves had blocked several drains and

VENGEFUL FLOOD—Torrential rains that turned Arbutus creek on Malahat from a quiet rill to a flood ripped out 75 feet of Trans-Canada Highway early today, leaving only concrete retaining wall. Break forced all highway traffic north to travel via Mill Bay

Ferry, and farther up hillside trouble on E & N Railway track forced suspension of up-Island service for today. Provincial engineers estimate at least two days will be required to bridge gap in temporary fashion. Road on opposite side leads to Hall's boathouse.

Transportation services and public utilities today were recovering from shattering blows inflicted here by an unprecedented 3.46 inches of rain in 24 hours. More rain is predicted for tonight.

Highlights of the rainstorm damage:

1. A huge fill at Arbutus creek on the Malahat, 15 miles from Victoria, washed out early this morning. Traffic will not be resumed for two days, according to government engineers.

2. More than 11 inches of rain in 24 hours at Jordan River overtaxed the huge capacity of the B.C. Electric storage dam spillway. Water rushing over the end of the dam washed out the flume serving the power house, and all Victoria's power now is coming from the B.C. Power Commission's John Hart plant at Campbell River, the Brentwood steam plant of the B.C. Electric, and the BCE Goldstream plant.

3. Sooke is cut off from Victoria. Dedwney flats one mile west of Glen Lake are under three feet of water, and two feet of water covers the road where Neal Creek, east of Sooke River, has overflowed its banks.

4. The Cowichan Lake community of Youbou, where B.C. Forest Products has a sawmill, was plunged into darkness early this morning.

Three families in the vicinity of the creek had to be moved to safety as the waters threatened their homes.

5. All Up-Island highway traffic is being carried on the Mill Bay ferry, which has announced it will maintain 24-hour service during the present emergency.

6. E & N Railway announced no trains would operate out of Victoria today.

7. Shawnigan Lake is reported to have risen three feet in the last 24 hours.

Weatherman William Mackie said the rain was the heaviest ever recorded here. In following the official weather records system, which tabulates totals only for the 24 hours between 4.30 a.m. one day and 4.30 a.m. on the following day, an all-time record rain for November was set of 2.65 inches for the 24-hour period.

"However, between 11 a.m.

Two Children Plucked From Renfrew Flood

"Mission accomplished" was flashed by a U.S. helicopter pilot over Port Renfrew at 2.45 this afternoon.

Capt. Mickey McPherson of the Victoria tug Island Challenger, standing off Port Renfrew, told the Times by radio-telephone at 3.05 p.m.

"Everything seems to be taken care of and the people are okay."

He said "everything must be all right now because the helicopter has just broken off radio contact and reported the mission accomplished."

Capt. McPherson had been co-operating with the 'copter in directing the airlift because of his knowledge of the area.

He said "at this moment the last portion of the San Juan bridge has just floated by. There is a tremendous amount of stumps, logs and other debris rushing by."

Capt. McPherson said the airlift operation appeared to go off smoothly and efficiently.

The 'copter from Port Angeles had been over Port Renfrew for an hour and one-half to rescue 11 persons reported trapped between two creeks in the logging-fishing village 50 miles from Victoria.

Two children, two women and two men were saved in two trips.

Two others made their own way to safety.

First reports said 11 were trapped.

The helicopter pilot was bucking head winds as he flew the 52 miles back to Port Angeles shortly after 3 p.m.

The U.S. Coast Guard dispatched the helicopter from Port Angeles shortly after noon. It reached Port Renfrew at 1.30 p.m.

The call for rescue said "we will be lost" if not saved before 3 p.m.

High tide at 2.07 p.m. reached 12 feet 8 inches at the mouth of the inlet, about two feet above normal. Shipping men here said danger would be increased because of the southeast wind blowing strongly in the area, backing up the ocean against the raging San Juan River.

The Coast Guard helicopter let down ladders to rescue the flood victims.

The Coast Guard diverted the helicopter from rescue operations in the U.S. Olympic peninsula to go to Port Renfrew.

Capt. McPherson reported that several bundles of logs stored in the San Juan River prior to booming have broken loose and drifted out into the strait.

Island Tug & Barge officials said that mariners should keep a sharp lookout in the area because of a danger caused by the debris spewed forth by the rampaging river.

Families Marooned Near Port Alberni

NANAIMO (CP) — Record rainfall along the east coast has also been hard hit by the heavy rains.

The old island highway at Crofton Corners, about nine miles north of Duncan, has been cut by rising waters of the Chemainus river.

This is the highest point the Chemainus river has reached since the disastrous floods of 1951.

At Cowichan Bay, one boat was seriously damaged Wednesday afternoon when it was rammed by a drifting log. The boat was towed to shore before it sank.

Henry M. Jackson and his family on Cowichan Bay road, four miles from Duncan, were stranded in their home.

RCMP in Duncan said "the family can't get out."

Police report that the road from Duncan to Lake Cowichan is still in use but Youbou cannot be reached.

The Coon Creek bridge, between Lake Cowichan and Youbou was washed out during the night by high water. The bridge is located four miles from Lake Cowichan and is the only road into the mill town.

Floods Threaten In Washington

SEATTLE (AP) — High winds and rain lashed the Washington-Oregon coastline Wednesday night closing the Columbia River entrance to shipping and raising a flood threat in both states.

Winds with gusts up to 50 miles an hour churned up 22-foot-high waves off the mouth of the Columbia.

Rainfall was heavy in both states. Seattle reported more than 2 inches up to an early hour Thursday. The rain caused slides in residential areas.

The upper Olympic Peninsula was hit hard by the storm. One highway was closed by water and slides and topping trees knocked out telephone service between Port Angeles and Neah Bay. Winds up to 60 and 70 miles an hour were reported overnight at Neah Bay.
